BIRTH

ADAMS — Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Adams are pleased to announce the birth of their daughter, Dawn Christine, at the Belleville General Hospital on July 20, 1968.

MADOC WINS FIRST GAME OF PLAYDOWNS

Madoc Intermediates won the first game of the O.A.S.A. playdowns when they defeated Campbellford 10-0 last night. The second game will be played in Madoc tonight.

MOORCROFT FAMILY REUNION HELD

The O'Hara Mill Picnic Area in Madoc Township was a fitting site for the first reunion of the descendants of the late John and Agnes (Blakely) Moorcroft. This pioneer couple came to Canada from Ireland in 1850, settling on the homestead where Mr. and Mrs. Hurrell Moorcroft live, now a Century Farm.

Most branches of the family were represented and a happy social afternoon was spent. Raymond Gonsolus was Master of Ceremonies for this event, recalling some of the early history and telling some anecdotes from his memory of older members, now deceased. He then had one member from each branch introduce the members of that family, thus calling the roll.

Prizes were given to various people for correct answers to prepared questions. Fred Moorcroft knew his grandfather's birthdate, which was also five-year-old Mary Richardson's birthday. Sharon Eckert and Gerry Latchford told us the year their great, great grandparents came to Canada and Minnie Moorcroft had the correct date of their marriage. Kenneth Sager had come from his home in Kitchener, which was the greatest distance anyone had travelled in coming to the Reunion; Clayton Holmes guessed the number of beans in the jar and, although Bruce Leslie was not the oldest person present, he did have the whitest hair. Jeannie Martin and Larry Rodgers were the youngest girl and boy present and the prize for the couple who were nearest to their Golden Wedding Anniversary went to Mr. and Mrs. Hurrell Moorcroft.

After the bounteous buffet dinner and business period, Linda and Donna Moorcroft conducted games and races for the young people with prizes given for the fleet of foot and the unerring eye.

Before the gathering dispersed, a committee was formed to plan a second Reunion in 1969 when, it is hoped, the full contingent will be present.

MADOC TOWNSHIP RESIDENT CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. W. Wood to celebrate his birthday on July 30.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Woods and family; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Lewis and family, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Rayburn Wood and daughter; Mrs. F. W. Wood, Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. F. Friesen and sons, North Bay; Mrs. Winnifred Hayton, Madoc; Mrs. Girdwood Hayton and family, Bancroft; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lewis, Madoc; Mrs. Gladys Demill, Madoc.

MADOC VILLAGE COUNCIL MINUTES

Madoc Village Council held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, August 6th, at 7:30 p.m.

Members present were Reeve T. Burnside and Councillors J. M. Caverly, C. R. Hagerman and Harry Roscoe.

Roscoe—Caverly—that the minutes of the last meeting be adopted as read. Hagerman—Roscoe—that we accept the proposal of Lightfoot Construction Ltd. for an extension of twenty days completion time (twenty working days) on their contract No. 67-32562. The request is necessitated by the rejection of previously accepted Granular "A" material.

Council agreed to negotiate with the Department of Highways for a connecting Link Agreement on Hwy. 62 from south of Queen Victoria St. to the By-Pass.

Caverly—Roscoe—that the following correspondence be received and filed: E. J. Armstrong, J. D. Lee Engineering Ltd.

The clerk was instructed to write a letter to Clarke Rollins, M.P.P. re the Ontario Housing Corporation.

Caverly—Hagerman—that all accounts signed by the various chairmen be paid and those paid during the month be ratified.

Roscoe—Caverly—that Council adjourn to the call of the Reeve.

Olive G. Ashe,
Clerk-Treasurer.

WON $100.00 AT STREET DANCE

The Madoc Kiwanis Annual Street Carnival held last week attracted a large crowd of spectators, but unfortunately, the event was spoiled by rain which fell throughout most of the evening. The stage show was presented and enjoyed by all present, but the rain caused the cancellation of the street dancing.

The winner of the $100.00 in cash was Mrs. Chas. Collins of Mowley, Man., who is a relative of Mr. E. T. Nayler.

A second street dance will be held on Wednesday, August 21st, when most of the same artists will appear on the stage show.

LANDED 35 LB. MUSKIE AT MOIRA LAKE

Moira Lake, long famous for its Muskellunge fishing, is again living up to its reputation. During the past few days, some excellent fish have been taken, including a 35 pounder by George Paraniuk and a 20 pounder by Carl McCoy of New Market.

The second largest fish of the season goes to 12-year-old Stephen Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith of Marmora, when he had the thrill of landing one weighing 25 pounds.

WEDDING

PHILLIPS — TODD

South Minister United Church, Ottawa, Ontario, was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday, June 15, 1968, when Verna Elizabeth Todd, Manotick, Ontario, became the bride of Ralph S. W. Phillips of Madoc and Ottawa, Ontario, son of Mrs. Mabel Phillips and the late Mr. Samuel Phillips of Malone, Ontario. Dr. A. L. Shorten performed the ceremony.

This week's Paper

On account of the mail strike, our news service has been discontinued until after the strike. This service includes "Sugar and Spice" and other features appearing weekly in our paper. With no out-of-town mail and no news service, we are forced to reduce the size of the Review and hope our readers will bear with us until after the strike.

REMINISCING

Taken from the Review files of 50, 25 and 15 years ago.

50 YEARS AGO

August 8, 1918.

Oreville — The Review begs to announce to its readers under the heading of Births, Marriages and Deaths, birth of a newcomer under the name of Oreville. At a meeting of the management and employers of the Muncie Mine last week, it was resolved to give their habitation and place a name by which it would be distinguished from the other places of the earth, and the name Oreville was selected. Oreville is a pretty name, with its vowel and consonantal sounds so arranged as to make it easy to pronounce, pleasing in sound and suggests of that harmony which we hope will always characterize its co-workers. Oreville organized a club to be known as the Oreville Employees Club and announce a dance to be held in their cook-house on Saturday.

Master Archie Ashley, a former pupil of Madoc Public School, now attending Delia Graded School, Saskatchewan, has been successful in passing Grade VIII exams. Out of a large class he passed first with honours, obtaining 82%.

On August 4th Mr. James Nayler received the following telegram from Ottawa — Sincerely regret inform you Gunner Percy Harold Nayler, artillery, officially reported admitted 54 General Hospital Aubengue, July 28th, 1918, gunshot wound, left shoulder, breast, knee, foot. Director of Records.

Birth — In Madoc Village on July 28th, 1918, to Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Nickle, a daughter.

Death — Death came suddenly on Monday morning, to Mrs. Amel Strobe of Eldorado. Deceased was on her way to the berry patch when she became seriously ill and was taken into Mr. D. Wannamaker's, where she died soon after. The funeral will take place from the residence of her father, Mr. Wm. Wannamaker, on Thursday afternoon. Interment in Fox's Cemetery. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and two-year-old son, her parents, one sister and three brothers.

25 YEARS AGO

August 5, 1943.

Early returns last night indicated that the Nixon Liberal Gov't. would be defeated and a race was on between the Progressive Party and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. Party leaders were elected with Hon. H. C. Nixon winning in Brant, Col. George Drew in Toronto High Park, and E. B. Jolliffe in York South.

Word has been received by Mrs. W. A. Ross, Toronto, that her son, P.M. Sgt. Walter Eugene Ross has been reported missing following a bombing raid over enemy territory. P.M. Sgt. Ross is a former Madocian and is well known here.

Residents of Huntingdon Township have done their share in contributing clothing to the needy Russian cause. The Huntingdon Red Cross Society has sponsored the "Clothing for Russia" Campaign. Approximately 492 pounds of clothing in perfect wearable condition has been packed in Ivanhoe and forwarded to the Ontario headquarters. Twenty-six carloads of used clothing, weighing 780,000 lbs., have been shipped to the Soviet Union by the Ontario Clothing Division of the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund.

Births — In Hotel Dieu de Valleyfield Hospital, Quebec, on July 26th, to Mr. and Mrs. James Wallace, (nee Irene Walker), a son, James Malcolm.

In Mt. Clements, Mich., on July 28, 1943, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nicholas (nee Niona Clark) formerly of Madoc, a daughter, Ruth Niona.

In Madoc Township on Saturday, July 31st, 1943, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Poole, a daughter.

In Belleville Hospital on Thursday, July 29th, to Mr. and Mrs. Ward Howard, a daughter.

15 YEARS AGO

August 6th, 1953.

Friends of Mr. Geoffrey Ginnrod, a former resident of Madoc Village, will be pleased to learn that he has been promoted to Manager. Jeff, as he is known here, will move to Atikokan, a town of 4,000, situated on the C.P.R. west of Port Arthur.

Canvassers will be around to see citizens of Madoc Village for donations to pay for the lights being erected in the new ball park. It is expected the lights will be in use this week.

The Madoc 4-H Calf Club held a meeting at the home of Mr. Percy Broadworth, Madoc, on Thursday, July 30th. Betty Ketcheson, president of the Club, was in charge of the meeting. Club members judged and gave reasons on two classes of Holsteins. Club Leader, Ross Moorcroft, assisted in judging instructions.

Births — At Peterborough Civic Hospital on Monday, August 3rd, 1953, to Mr. and Mrs. Duke Munro, a son.

In Elzevir Township on Thursday, August 6th, 1953, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ramsay, a daughter.

Marriages — A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, August 1st, at Halloway United Church parsonage, Belleville, when Getha Irene Cretnay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott, Belleville, was united in marriage to James Lawrence Burns of Madoc, the Rev. M. Lairman officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Parks of Madoc attended the bride and groom.

On Thursday morning, July 23rd, 1953, Hogan House, Millbridge, was the scene of the wedding of Loretta Agnes Hogan, daughter of the late James Hogan and Mrs. Hogan, to Mr. John Murphy. Rev. G. Scanlon of Marmora conducted the ceremony. Miss Aileen Hogan was her sister's only attendant. Mr. John Murphy of Murphy's Corners was his cousin's bestman.

On Saturday, July 18th, at 4 p.m. the wedding was solemnized by Rev. W. R. Merick at his home in Belleville when Gloria Julia Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Edwards became the bride of Harry David Bronson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bronson of Crookston. Miss Helen Love of Belleville was bridesmaid and Mr. Donald Bronson attended his brother.

LOCAL and PERSONAL

Misses Carrie and Earla Brown and Mrs. Clarence Brown of Akron, Ohio, were recent callers in Madoc. Mrs. Fairfield and two daughters were with them.

Mr. Ernest Brown of Belleville renewed old acquaintances in town. Misses Prudence and Anne McIntosh spent the weekend with their mother.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dobson of Toronto spent the weekend with Mrs. Hugh McIntosh.

Mrs. Frank Phillips of Port Hope has been visiting friends around Madoc.

OBTAINED 90 PER CENT AVERAGE

Murray Rankin, son of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Rankin, 6 Spring Garden Blvd., St. Catharines, has obtained a 90 per cent average on nine credits, this being the highest average of the Grade 13 results in the city.

A member of the winning Rotary Debating Team in 1967, he received his school letter this year. He was first vice-president of the Lakeport Students' Council in 1967-1968, and attended the Humanities Seminar in 1967. Winner of a number of scholarships, he will enter Queen's University, where he has been awarded $500.

Murray spent his early life with his parents in Madoc and is the grandson of Mrs. Rankin, Queensboro Rd., Madoc.

MADOC-TWEED LADIES WIN OVER CLOYNE

If by chance you happened to be passing the Madoc ball diamond last Tuesday night, from the movements on the field, no one would guess that a ball game was about to be played. Before your eyes could be seen the famous team hefting shovel and rake trying to fill in monstrous pits of water. Plain to see that the girls can do more than throw the ball around and bring home victory after victory. This is exactly what they did Tuesday night in Madoc with a game against the Cloyne ladies, the winning score being 13-2.

The Madoc-Tweed ladies got off to a flying start bringing in five runs in the first inning. This was followed by one in the second; three in the third; and one only in the fourth and three in the last inning.

High point hitters of the evening were Betty Danford and Bev. Caterer, each bringing in three runs.

With only two more games to play before the playoffs in their four-team league, the Madoc ladies go to Kalar next Tuesday night and the Arden ladies play in Madoc on the following Tuesday night, August 20th.

Madoc ladies count themselves fortunate so far, with no broken bones, no lost articles, no fighting and only three broken bats (all broken by the same player on the team). We need Madoc spectators at our games. It costs a fortune trying to keep Jackie in bats.

LOCAL SCOUTING
THE MUSKRAT PATROL

This weekend the peace and solitude of the tranquil waters that comprise what is known as Whitefish Lake was truly shattered. Thirteen stealthy cunning ornerly members of the FIRST MADOC SCOUT TROOP advanced into the formerly quiet forests of Centre Hastings. They arrived at their prospective campsite fifteen miles east of Gunter in the dark on Friday night and proceeded to erect the tents.

Dawn came quickly and trooper, or should I say Scout Daring Danny DeClair, awoke to find deer tracks on the beach and he followed the tracks and was rewarded by the sight of live venison on the hoof. The Scoutmaster was awakened somewhat reluctantly by the deafening roar of little voices. Cooking fires were started and the Scouts ate in small groups, three or four to a fire. The average menu went something like this: bacon, eggs, ravioli, beans, hot dogs, and for the main course, jam sandwiches. After many contented burps and the odd groan, everyone set out on a short hike around the lake. Curiosity got the best of them, however, and the short hike lasted for eight long miles and six hours.

Everyone knows that the shortest distance between two points on a map is a straight line, but nobody mentions the mud and water in the way. The Scouts soon found that the best walking was in the water along the shores of the lake. They also found that this meant getting shoes, pants and shirt wet! One vicious bear watching the thin green line advance up the swampy entanglement was overheard telling a cringing wolf to run for his life if he valued his fur coat.

Yogi Bear Bronson provided a running commentary for the first four miles, then his battery ran down (Thank Heavens!).

At approximately 1500 hrs. (three o'clock) a beleaguered but defiant crew returned to camp and shortly thereafter the entire western front was unprotected due to unconscious troops. The rest of the afternoon was spent in camp. The evening meal was prepared: the menu read beans, ravioli, hot dogs, spaghetti and a complete chinese dinner a la tin can. Battle fatigue set in early and the Scoutmaster enjoyed nine hours of peaceful slumber before facing the thirteen-men firing squad. Sunday

HUNTINGDON TWP.
COUNCIL MINUTES

Huntingdon Township Council met on August 1st at 8:15 p.m. at its regular meeting place. The minutes were read and adopted as such. Mr. Thos. Lindale, Public School Trustee, attended the Council meeting and gave a report on the condition of morning.

Sunday began with Church parade, short, to the point, and attended by all. In the afternoon Paul Bunyan Burris won the log rolling contest, staying on nine seconds. Time rolled on as all thirteen Scouts successfully passed tests, winning bronze stage swimming badges and three made it all the way to gold stage. One test for this badge involved floating ten minutes by blowing your shirt full of air. Just try it sometime. During the lifesaving practice, the Scoutmaster acted as the drowning man challenging each muskrat to save him without drowning himself. Ian the Living Stone was the only successful muskrat. He swam underwater behind the drowning man and grabbed the poor soul by the hair dragging him protesting to safety. It isn't often you get to pull the Scoutmaster's hair.

Sunday night Grant Gabel infiltrated the camp providing valuable campcraft tips and many backwoods stories. That night by the campfire great entertainers like Culliver the Great and McNight the Magnificent shot the breeze and generally blew their cool. Again a miracle occurred and everyone got a full night's sleep.

A great general once said we never retreat, we just advance to the rear. Monday, time came to advance. Before leaving camp, the entire area was cleaned.

The Scouts wish to thank Tony Owen, Don DeClair and Grant Gabel for their valuable assistance.

We hope this column reaches your home before the shock wave reaches Madoc.

DERRY DAY, CELEBRATED IN MADOC

On Saturday, August 10th., Hastings County Black Chapter was host at the Madoc Fair Grounds at a Commemoration of Derry Day. The weather was ideal and lodges were present from as far away as Quebec, Arnprior, Killaloe Sta., and Lindsay.

At noon a turkey dinner was served on the grounds by the Madoc L.O.B.A. No. 1193.

At 1:30 p.m. the parade was assembled and headed by the Merryville Accordion Band, the thirty lodges present in full regalia, with their bands, paraded through the principal streets of the village.

George Gordon, W.C. Preceptor, was chairman for the program of addresses.

Greetings were brought by the Most Wor. Grand Preceptor, Sir Knight Spooner from the Grand Lodge of British America.

The guest speaker was the Grand Treasurer of B.A., Sir Knight Jones.

Other speakers included Rt. Wor. Grand Prec. of Ontario East, Sir Stenson; Past Prec. of Ontario East, Sir Kt. Brown; Rt. Wor. Grand Master, Grand Orange Lodge, Ontario East, Bro. Jasper and Rt. Wor. Mistress, L.O.B.A. Ont. East, Sis. Pearl Holmes.

STREET DANCE NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Madoc Kiwanis Club will present their second street dance of the summer next Wednesday evening, August 21.

The program for the evening will be the same as at the first one, featuring the Cross Country Jamboree. This program has become very popular in the area and should again attract a large attendance.

Due to the rain at the previous carnival, the receipts were considerably lower than usual and the club needs more funds to carry on their welfare work.

Landed Large Pickeral

Mr. Jack McColl of 37 Barber St., London, Ontario, was successful in landing a large pickeral while fishing in the Upper Moira Lake on Wednesday evening of last week.

The fish was 27 inches long and weighed 7 pounds, 2 ounces.

Caught 3 lb. Trout

Master Stephen Hutley of Trenton while fishing with his friend, Randy Rose, of Madoc, hooked and landed a 3 lb. Trout last Friday.

Stephen was 12 years old on Tuesday of this week.

The boys are not saying which of the many streams in this area they caught their big fish.

Visited Switzerland

Mr. Louis Felber returned home last week, after spending a month in Switzerland and other European countries, where he visited his brother, whom he had not seen in 42 years.

Mr. Felber reports a marvelous trip and says he plans another trip in the near future.

Going to North Bay

We are sorry to learn that Rev. W. A. Smith and Mrs. Smith are leaving Madoc and are moving to North Bay. Mr. Smith has been minister of the Wesleyan Methodist Church here for the past eight years and will be missed by a large number of friends.

The new Wesleyan Methodist Church was built here under Mr. Smith's supervision.

Rev. and Mrs. Smith will be accompanied to North Bay by Mrs. Smith's father, Mr. Eric Hudson, who has also made a large number of friends during his residence here.

BIRTH

MOORCROFT — Mr. and Mrs. H. Robert Moorcroft, namely Barbara Brown, 950 Orchard Court, Oshawa, are pleased to announce the birth of a son, Mark Robert, weight 9 pounds, on Monday, August 12th, at Oshawa General Hospital, a brother for Andyth.

Intermediates Win

The Madoc Intermediates took the first round of the O.A.S.A. playdowns by defeating Campbellford in two games. The second and final game of the series was played in Madoc last Thursday night with the locals winning 12-2.

On Monday night, Madoc defeated Gosport 6-2 in the second round of the playdowns. The second game of this series will be played on the Madoc ball grounds this Thursday night.

Elgin Street to be Paved

Work started this week on Elgin Street. The road is to be rebuilt from Durham Street past the high school. When completed, this road will have a permanent surface.

The work is being done by local labour and is expected to be completed by September. The cost is estimated by the council to be less than $10,000.

We get letters

Teachers get some pretty funny notes from parents, explaining the absence of a pupil. Usually it's because the harassed mother or father stabs down anything at the last minute, as the kid, heading for the door, and already late, screams in dismay: "Oh I gotta have a note."

Thus you get such things as, "Please excuse Jane's grandmother for being absent due to her illness." The baffled teacher finally figures out that granny had the flu and Jane had to stay home and look after her because Mom can't miss a day at the shoe factory, because that's the only way she can muster enough money to buy Jane some decent clothes so she can go to school, so she can be a real whiz and help out Granny and Mom.

Sometimes the notes are not so funny. "Please excuse Jim for being late as he had to appear in court this morning for drunk and disorderly, but it was the other guy's fault."

Well, teachers aren't the only ones who receive sad and funny letters. The rest of the column will be made up of sentences taken from actual letters received by the Toronto Welfare Department from applicants for aid and assistance.

They may explain why English teachers look so stunned so much of the time. The sentences will be in quotation marks. The comments will be whatever comes to mind.

"I am very annoyed that you have branded my son illiterate as this is a lie. I was married to his father a week before he was born." She didn't mean illiterate. She meant illegible.

"In answer to your letter, I have given birth to a boy weighing ten pounds. I hope this is satisfactory." Really, what could be more satisfactory?

"Unless I get my husband's money pretty soon, I will be forced to lead an immortal life." And good luck to you, Missus. There should be a lot more of that type of positive thinking in the world.

"Mrs. Jones has not had any clothes for a year and has been visited regularly by the Clergy." No comment.

"This is my eighth child, what are you going to do about it?" What, indeed? It's certainly time somebody did something. Or stopped doing something.

"I am glad to report that my husband who was reported missing is dead." Now there is a sentence of which Hemingway would be proud. Not a syllable too much or too little. The emotion is restrained. Note that she said "glad", not "delighted".

And here's one with the same theme, but a different twist. "Please find for certain if my husband is dead, the man I am living with can't eat or do anything until he finds out." There's drama for you. There's tragedy. Think of the poor devil, starving to death, unable to smoke or drink or pick his teeth or pull the fluff out of his belly-button.

Here's another that shows a nice respect for bureaucracy. "In accordance with your instructions, I have given birth to twins in the enclosed envelope." And they thought The Pill was a big deal!

Another mom writes, "I cannot get sick pay. I have six children. Can you tell me why?" There's a beautiful logic there somewhere, if you could just put your finger on it.

"I haven't any children as yet as my husband is a bus driver and works day and night." But think of all that overtime.

And finally. It sounds like an old chestnut, but teachers actually get notes like this. "I want money as quick as I can get it. I have been in bed with the doctor for two weeks and he doesn't do me any good. If things don't improve, I will have to send for another doctor."

This is Medicare?

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES ATTEND CONVENTION

Thousands of people were streaming to Ottawa last week, and five Madoc families were among them.

The attraction was a four-day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses being held at the Ottawa Civic Centre (Lansdowne Park). The convention drew close to 13,000 delegates.

The purpose of the mammoth gathering according to the local presiding minister, Mr. Arthur West, was "to give impetus to the current public-missionary program of the Witnesses, to encourage the building of happy family units determined to follow divine wisdom, and to provide an example of Christian-unity in a mixed-up world".

The exodus from Madoc — and more than 250 other communities of Ontario and Quebec — included many young faces.

"Family unity and respect for the family head are better taught when 'dad' takes his family with him, especially when Bible instruction is involved," says Mr. West.

Delegates were not headed for a vacation, but rather to work and learn he said. Twenty-two hours of instruction were involved in the four-day program. In addition, one in four worked in a service department such as, the convention cafeteria, which can turn out 5,000 meals an hour.

Part of the instruction, he said, explained methods of teaching youths and adults how to show concern for affairs about them in a constructive, upbuilding way.

"Adults want to see teenagers take a responsible interest in the affairs of life. But prejudice and injustice are so entrenched in most social systems that youths become frustrated and turn to negative, destructive methods of forcing reforms, such as civil disobedience and rioting. However, there is a scriptural way to help our neighbour, and the rewards are success and satisfaction", Mr. West contended.

He explained, "The Bible outlines a two-fold program. First, work on the basic unit of society — the individual — helping him to align his conduct with the high standards of true Christianity, building in each such qualities as unselfishness, gentleness and humility before God and Men. Second, but not most important, help him to see and support God's kingdom government as the real solution to social inequities. The days of man's independence are numbered. The Bible marks this generation as the time when God will rip rulership away from men".

Several dramatic presentations staged separately in English, French and Italian were included as part of the cast upwards of one hundred teenage Witnesses. Rehearsals have been going on for the last two months in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto.

FUNERAL SERVICE HELD FOR BOATING VICTIMS

The funeral of a Trenton couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Flindall, who lost their lives two weeks ago in a Lake Ontario boating accident, was held last Monday morning, August 5, at St. George's Anglican Church in Trenton.

The funeral service was conducted by Canon K. F. Blachford.

Mr. Flindall was buried in Mount Hope Cemetery at Brighton, while his wife was buried in St. George's Anglican Church Cemetery at Trenton.

Mr. Flindall, 57, and his 39-year-old wife left Brighton on Wednesday morning aboard an American-owned 36-foot cabin cruiser La Dolce Vita which was later reported overdue at Rochester.

During the trip across the lake, the cabin cruiser apparently disintegrated. Thursday afternoon, debris from the boat was found in the lake north of Oswego and Friday morning the body of Mrs. Flindall was recovered.

The bodies of Mr. Flindall and those of the American couple, Arthur Patterson Sr and his wife, Marian, were found on Saturday. Mr. Patterson was a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel.

United States coastguard officials said all four had been drowned and suffered exposure. They were wearing life jackets.

The cause of the mishap has not been pinpointed, but the Oswego County Sheriff's Department said there was evidence of fire.

Mrs. Flindall was a sister of Mrs. Carl Gabel of Madoc.

The doctor's new secretary was puzzled by an entry in the doctor's notes on an emergency case. It read: "Shot in the lumbar region".

Being an enterprising girl, she perked up after a moment and typed on the record: "Wounded in the woods".

SIXTH ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL WRITERS' CONFERENCE

Commencing on August 16 through 18, 1968, the Sixth Annual International Writers' Conference will be held at the Madoc-Tweed Art Centre, where Canada's first Peace Pagoda is now being erected.

The program, arranged for the beginning writer as well as the experienced author and journalist, will take place at the Centre on Trans Canada Highway No. 7 east of Madoc, Ontario, in the beautiful Highlands of Hastings. This will cover the broad spectrum of creative and non-fiction writing and will summarize in workshops and panel discussions, the course held during the previous two weeks in newspaper and magazine writing, photo-journalism, short story writing and tips on marketing and book publishing.

At Canada's only annual International Writers' Conference, the invited literati include: Mrs. Marion Benasutti, author, lecturer and editor of The Pen Woman; and Harry Meacham, chairman of the Academy of American Poets, who will head the International section. In the same category are Frank Morrison, free lance writer and instructor from Tampa, Florida, and Claude X. LaBrecque, editor and writer-at-large who jockeys his pen between Granby, Quebec and West Palm Beach.

Among the Canadian literary contingent will be Clyde Bell, editor and co-publisher of The Tweed News; Lyn Harrington, globetrotter and regional director, Canadian Authors Association; T. G. Mockett, photo-journalist and editor, Ottawa; and Charles Andrew Tupper, Hastings County poet.

Roy Cadwell, M.A., author of 'Communism In The Modern World', and Director of the Centre, is moderator for the conference, assisted by Peggy Cameron King, writer and author from Birmingham, Michigan, and Sally Saunders, poet and instructor from Narbeth, Pennsylvania.

A highlight of the Conference will be a "Panel of Experts" to answer any question at the closing night banquet when the annual awards will be made. Aspiring authors as well as established scribes are invited. Additional information can be obtained by writing Madoc-Tweed Art Centre, Madoc, Ontario, or phoning 478-5168.

WHY AN S.M.V. SIGN

The orange and red triangular Slow Moving Vehicle sign will be required by law September 1st, 1968, on Ontario's farm vehicles travelling the public roads. Why do we need this additional sign on highways that sometimes appear to be overcrowded already with signs?

Well, in 1967, Ontario's farmers were involved in 246 car-tractor accidents. These are 246 reasons why this Slow Moving Vehicle sign is necessary. And to this the 10 fatalities, 140 injuries and over $250,000. loss in property damage and the need for this special sign is quite apparent.

As a motorist, learn to recognize this orange and red triangle as a warning of a slow vehicle. This will give you time to stop and prevent you from becoming a statistic.

The Pope and the pill

The practical consequences of Pope Paul's encyclical disallowing the pill and other birth control devices, are already being felt.

Within the Roman Catholic church, it appears a majority of families, even in North America, are abiding by the Pope's decision. Surveys taken in the past have shown that slightly more than one-half of Catholic couples in North America have practised birth control of one form or another.

Some of these families, it is obvious, are now abandoning these practices. The result will be that probably less than one-half of Catholics in Canada will defy the Pope's judgement on this subject.

Such couples will regard the matter of how many babies they are going to have as one of personal conscience, as indeed they have been urged to do so by many prominent Catholic theologians since the Pontiff delivered his encyclical, Of Human Life.

It is the reaction of nearly one-half of the Roman Catholic family that poses serious consequences for the future of the Church of Rome.

There is no doubt that the Pope's ruling has created a crisis of the first order in the Church. It is being freely predicted by knowledgeable Catholic scholars that many will leave the Church rather than submit to what a substantial bloc regards as an unfair, outdated and impractical edict.

It is this threat, apparently, which accounts for the seemingly mild approach taken by the Church in backing up the Pope's ruling. The Pope himself has explained the anguish which the decision caused him, and that he understands even if he cannot accept the opposition to it.

Had the Pope called on the Church to enforce the encyclical as firmly as it enforces dogma, the results would of course have been much different. But as the encyclical does not come "ex-cathedra" (from the throne) as an infallible theological edict, the way is left open for Catholics to disregard it and yet remain within the Church.

If they are assisted in this course by sufficient bishops and priests, as seems likely, then the Church will be spared the kind of upheaval which otherwise might have produced a schism without parallel since the Protestant reformation.

For while the ban on birth control is now a law of the Church, it is not one for which Catholics will be excommunicated for breaking.

It can be assumed that the anguish felt by many Catholic couples over this matter is no less than the anguish of which the Pope spoke in respect to reaching his decision.

There is not space here to discuss the theological and ethical aspects of the birth control decision.

The first practical consequence, as mentioned above, is to drive nearly one-half of all Catholic families in Canada into wilful disobedience of the dictates of their Church.

The second practical consequence, and much more far reaching, is the influence the Church will have on slowing the development of birth control programs in the over-populated and under-developed nations of the world.

By issuing the call to secular governments to refrain from birth control programs, Pope Paul took the issue out of the fabric of Church policy and thrust it into the arena of world political issues.

By one of these curious ironies of history, Pope Paul this month is visiting Latin America, a continent almost 100 percent Catholic. It is also a continent of grinding poverty, with the world's highest birth rate, where most countries are gripped in social structures which are open invitations to Communist revolution. In seven years, the population there has grown from 210 to 260 million and, by the end of the century, will pass 600 million at the present rate.

If the Church is able to sway governments into delaying birth control education, it runs the risk of being held accountable at some future date for the effects of over-population on all of humanity.

INCREASE IN POSTAGE RATES INEVITABLE

At least part of that pay raise that got postal workers back on the job Friday is going to come directly out of the pockets of users of the mail service.

Informants say legislation to increase postal rates is inevitable in the next session of Parliament, expected to open in mid-September.

The post office ran up a $37,000,000 deficit in the fiscal year that ended last March 31st. The forecast for the current year is for the department to finish more than $60,000,000 in the red.

This expected deficit takes account of the pay increases amounting to about 15 per cent approved by the 24,000 postal workers in a country-wide vote that ended the 22-day strike.

The minority Liberal government of Lester Pearson presented a bill last year to boost the first-class mail rate to six cents from five and to raise the charges on lower categories by an unspecified amount.

The measure was killed, however, when opposition MPs forced a surprise vote and caught the Liberals without enough MPs in the Commons to keep the bill increases alive.

A new measure to boost rates is expected in the next session and it could be stiffer than the defeated one.

There is talk that the government is considering an increase to seven cents from five in the rate for out-of-town letters and to six cents from four for local letters.

There also is speculation about higher charges for the lower categories of mail. New Democrats for years have complained that rates charged for mailing of newspapers are too low. They claim publishers are getting an unwarranted preferential rate.

It is expected the government will act quickly to get the higher rates through Parliament and to put them into effect quickly after parliamentary approval.

Killing the postal measure last year was estimated to have meant a revenue loss to the government of about $25,000,000.

WOODS, WATERS AND WILDLIFE

BY JAMES WOODFORD

A new conservation association, The Algonquin Wildlands League, was formed recently. The league was established as a volunteer, non-profit organization "to ensure that the heritage of Algonquin and other parks in Ontario, significant for their natural characteristics, shall be passed on in tact to succeeding generations."

C. Abbott Conway, president of the league, describes the purpose of the league as follows: "It is our hope that a great many people who value the natural features of the parks of Ontario will support our work. There are already numerous associations of naturalists in the province, many of which have given strong leadership in upholding the integrity of the parks. But we are convinced that there are literally thousands of outdoorsmen who do not consider themselves naturalists in the strict sense of the word but would welcome an association that speaks for those who simply enjoy outdoor activities in primitive surroundings with primitive equipment."

He said history has shown that governments do not establish and maintain good parks systems unless there are strong citizens' organizations to counter-balance the efforts of short-sighted exploiters who measure the value of any land solely by its convertibility into instant dollars.

At the public hearing last March of the Ontario legislature committee on natural resources and tourism, Mr. Conway presented a brief outlining a plan for zoning Algonquin Park.

The brief stressed that plans must be laid now to cope with the increasing tide of outdoorsmen and their families who are already threatening to destroy the very features they come to see and experience.

"To the people of Ontario and beyond, the name Algonquin Park carries an image of unspoiled wilderness. But campers, canoe-trippers and hikers are finding that it is rapidly being spoiled."

Mr. Conway pointed out that the league will depend for financial support on its members. In order to attract as many people as possible, the annual membership dues are being kept at a minimum $2.00 per year.

Interested persons should write Algonquin Wildlands League, Box 114, Postal Station Q, Toronto 7, and ask for a membership brochure — or send $2.00 and enroll as a member. Membership in the Algonquin League will add your voice to the growing army of citizens who are dedicated to seeing that some of Ontario is kept forever wild.

THREE KILLED ON HIGHWAY 62

Highway 62 claimed three lives in automobile accidents during the weekend.

Instantly killed Saturday night when their car rolled over near Gilmour, 25 miles north of Madoc, were Elvin Roy Robbins, 34, of Richmond Hill, and his brother, Mervin Walter Robbins, 41, of London, Ontario.

The brothers were heading toward their home town, Bancroft, apparently for the weekend, when the mishap occurred.

Cause of the accident was not known, but Provincial Police say the driver, presumably Elvin Robbins, lost control and the car rolled at least twice, throwing both men onto the roadway.

The same night, Vincent Paul Marquard, 22, of Combermere, was killed in a two-car collision six miles south of Barry's Bay.

William Schweig, 21, a passenger in the Marquard car, was admitted to intensive care at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Two occupants of the other automobile, Archie Sauve, 27, and Mrs. Loretta Beaudry, 53, both of Scarborough, were taken to Scarborough General Hospital.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hannah wish to thank their friends and neighbours for the lovely evening and for the gifts presented to them prior to their departure for their new home in Stirling.

WEDDING

LOYST - EMBURY

Rev. V. W. Tozer was the officiating clergyman in Trinity United Church, Madoc, Ontario, on Saturday, August 10, 1968, at 2:00 p.m., when Sandra Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerald Embury of R.R. 1, Madoc, was united in marriage to Mr. Earl Arthur Reginald Loyst, son of Mrs. Gladys Loyst and the late Mr. Earl V. Loyst of 73 Division Street, Kingston, Ontario.

Mr. Stanley Hawthorne supplied the wedding music.

The bride was lovely in a full length Empire gown of white rayon taffeta with a Guipure lace bodice and lily-point sleeves featuring a detachable lace train that fell softly from a taffeta bow at her waist. A white satin crown with pearls and crystals held a three-tier veil in place. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Connie Smith, friend of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a pink rayon taffeta A-line dress with matching pink acetate and nylon lace coat, white shoes and gloves and a white rayon taffeta open-crown hat with a short net veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white flowers.

The bridesmaids, Misses Patsy and Sharon Embury, sisters of the bride, were dressed identical in turquoise rayon taffeta A-line dresses with matching acetate and nylon lace coat and white accessories and a headpiece to match that of the maid of honor. They each had a white corsage.

Mr. Carl Loyst, brother of the groom, also of Kingston, was bestman and Robert and John Embury, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

At the reception held at the bride's home, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a powder blue lace over taffeta dress with white accessories and a white gardenia corsage. Assisting was the groom's mother in a three-piece pink suit with white accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

A three-tiered wedding cake, topped by a bride and groom, centered the bride's table.

For her wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a three-piece yellow linen suit, white hat, gloves and shoes and a white gardenia corsage. On their return, the couple will reside at Oshawa, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were from Kingston, Elginburg, Belleville and Yarker.

WEDDING

BROWNSON - BEACHLI

St. James' United Church, Peterborough, was the setting for the marriage on Saturday, July 20, 1968, at 2:00 p.m. when Margaret Anne Beachli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Beachli of Norland, Ontario, became the bride of Russell Cameron Brownson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Brownson of Madoc. Rev. Norman officiated at the ceremony and Mrs. King was organist and also accompanied the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of peau de soie and lace, gathered at the back with a satin bow, with lace appliques at the neckline, a headdress of peau de soie, flowers adorned with rhinestones and a flowing veil of scalloped bridal net. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations golden shade garnet Sweetheart roses with trailing ivy.

The maid of honor, Miss Sharon Peel of Oshawa, wore a gown of mauve peau de grenadine with lace beiter with a headdress of matching ribbon and daisies and carried white shasta daisies with floor-length purple streamers. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Linda Beachli, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Elaine Devolin, sister of the bridegroom, were dressed similarly as were the flower girl, Dianne Borg, niece of the bride, and the train bearer, Elaine Borg, also a niece of the bride. Kenneth Borg, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mr. Allan Robinson of Actinolite attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were John Beachli, brother of the bride, and Darrel Devolin, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

For the wedding reception at the Empress Hotel in Peterborough, the bride's mother wore an aqua crepe dress with chiffon coat in matching shade, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Wearing a turquoise linen dress with matching lace coat, white accessories and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses, the bridegroom's mother assisted in the receiving line.

For a wedding trip to points north, the bride chose a hot pink party skimmer of rayon-crepe with floating panel white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Brownson are residing at 119 Dublin Street, Peterboro.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the guest at a miscellaneous shower given in her honor by Mrs. Brown of Norland, also at the home of Sharon Peel at Oshawa. The girls from the Bank of Commerce, Peterborough, held a shower at a summer cottage and at the home of Mrs. Robert McCoy, Madoc, with Mrs. Roy Brownson as co-hostess.

AUDIOVISUAL PRESENTATION AT C.N.E.

The Ontario Department of Labor will utilize multi-screen images, hundreds of slides, background music and commentary to show what's happening at the Department in an audio-visual display at the Canadian National Exhibition, August 15th to September 2.

The display in the Ontario Government Building will give CNE visitors a knowledge and understanding of the Department's many programs and activities. The Department has four other major displays at the CNE.

The exhibits will be staffed by 16 young hostesses. All are high school and college students or teachers who have been thoroughly briefed on Department activities. Each hostess is bilingual and several can converse in additional languages. One will be a hostess in the Canadian Pavilion at Expo '70 in Osaka, Japan.

In the Queen Elizabeth Building, live demonstrations of cooking and baking will be presented in co-operation with the Food Services Division of George Brown College of Applied Arts and Technology.

Illustrating an important phase of the Department's on-the-job training program, chefs will show visitors that the gourmet touch can transform any menu. Cake and pastry decorating will also be demonstrated at frequent intervals.

The display, entitled "You're a What" is aimed the high school student attempting to choose a career. It will illustrate the numerous opportunities for women in the modern business world.

The Ontario Human Rights Commission will describe its program and activities through illuminated messages in the Better Living Centre, and the Department's CNE staff will provide information and literature.

The Safety in Ontario exhibit, also in the Better Living Centre, will depict safety programs in films, slides and demonstration of safety practices and use of safety equipment in industry.

A BALL AND A BELLE. What more could you ask for than a pretty gal wanting to play in a refreshing pool on a hot summer day? In fact, this "blue ribbon baby" had so many fellas ready to accept her offer that she was forced to withdraw from the picture... but not before our photographer did his job — TNS Photo

During the week of August 4th to August 10th, 1968, officers of the Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police, investigated 67 occurrences: two break and enters, five thefts, three disturbances, with 37 miscellaneous occurrences.

There were a total of six motor vehicle accidents during this period, five of a property damage nature, with one personal injury accident resulting in the death of two persons.

In connection with the above, a northbound vehicle left the paved portion of Highway No. 62 on Saturday, August 10th, at about 9:00 p.m. The vehicle, a 1959 Oldsmobile, came to rest in the east ditch, with damage to the vehicle estimated at $1,000.00. Both passengers, Elvin Roy Robbins, age 34 years, of 420 Younge Street, North, Richmond Hill, and Marvin Walker Robbins, 41 years, of London, Ontario, were killed as a result of the accident. Provincial Constable R. Whitehorse is the investigating officer.

Charges were laid under authority of the Highway Traffic Act of Ontario, with 52 vehicles safety checked and 56 traffic warnings issued.

28 hours were spent in Magistrate's Court, Madoc, with Magistrate R. C. Jackson registering 36 convictions. Motorists: At night never travel at a speed which makes it impossible to stop within the distance you can see ahead.

Prov. Const. D. N. Walton,
Public Information Officer.

FIVE BOGUS $10 BILLS PASSED IN QUINTE AREA

The threat of bogus bills has become a reality for the Brighton district as four counterfeit bills have turned up over the weekend. Provincial Police at Brighton released details. The bills were all $10 denominations and had the same serial.

The number to watch for is R/D-0820551.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce seems to be the favorite gathering place for the counterfeit bills. Two bills were discovered at the bank's Brighton branch and one at its Coburne office.

The fourth bill was discovered in a Brighton Store.

Police spokesmen said the bills are easily identifiable due to their "dull finish and slippery texture".

Residents in the area have been warned to be on the lookout. O.P.P. Constable Al Tremere is investigating.

Monday, military at Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, turned up a fifth phoney $10, bearing the same serial numbers.

The bill was passed at the base post office.

One nice thing about the old-fashioned blacksmith — when you took your horse in to be shod, he didn't think of 40 other things that ought to be done.

COOPER

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Graham, Eric and Ralph Bailey spent last week at a cottage at Moira Lake.

Miss Nancy Burleigh, Kingston, visited her niece, Mrs. Maurice Reynolds, and Mr. Reynolds all last week. Visitors at the same home a week ago Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hamilton, Lori and Jeffrey, R.R. 5, Trenton, Miss Nancy Reynolds and Mr. Bob Innis, Belleville.

THE SPORTS BEAT

By Glen May

Six don't rate

When you assess Canadian Football League teams the first notation you should make is just how prolific is the quarterback and how strong is the Canadian talent. Using this formula it is relatively simple to judge the nine CFL clubs.

In fact, there are only three teams in Canada which would receive high marks for their talent at quarterback and offensive strength: Calgary Stampeders, Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The red and white clad Stampeders have the finest aerial attack in the land, when quarterback Peter Lake is throwing and flanker Terry Evanshen is catching. This dangerous duo will win more games than the entire Winnipeg Blue Bomber team.

Last year this combination rewrote the CFL record book, and don't bet against them doing it again this season.

Lake proved last term that he was the finest quarterback in Canadian football, and until he is dethroned, you must give him your vote as Number One. Evanshen was the country's top homebrew in 1967. You can't discount his repeating last year's scintillating performance.

Calgary's Canadian contingent is excellent, especially with the additions of pass-catching Bob McCarthy and halfback Gary Crammer.

Saskatchewan Roughriders have Ron Lancaster at quarterback and not much else, except that intangible element which is synonymous with winners — pride.

The loss of Jack Abend-schan, Garner Ekstrom, Hugh Campbell and Ed Buchanan appears to be too great for the Riders to overcome. Abend-schan was the best field goal kicker in the CFL.

Second best in the West is Saskatchewan.

Back East the Ottawa Rough Riders should (repeat) should wear all the laurels, if (repeat M) the internal turmoil is squashed by general manager Red O'Quinn. Salary disputes and personnel differences could again wreck Ottawa's chances of a Grey Cup berth.

At quarterback, Russ Jackson is second only to Lake. Jackson is also runner-up to Evanshen as the outstanding Canadian. Jackson is the finest running quarterback in the country, and on given days, he can challenge Lake as the top tosser.

Ottawa has exceptional Canadian strength in Ronnie Stewart, Rick Black, Whit Tucker and Billy Cooper.

In Steel City, lair of the defending Grey Cup champion Tiger-Cats, an aura of mystery prevails. This team could go undefeated, or it could nose-dive into last place.

Quarterback Joe Zuger has been robot-like efficient in past years, but now with a green light at his disposal, nobody seems to know just what to expect. In the past Zuger has been told what to do and when. Now it's up to him.

New coach Joe Ristic plans to put more offense into the Tigers this year, but unless Zuger arrives quickly, look for Hamilton to be the same gang of defensive thugs as in years gone by.

Hamilton undoubtedly has the finest Canadian roster of any team. With players such as John Barrow, Angelo Mosca, Ellison Kelly, Tommy Joe Coffey, Tommy Grant, Barrie Hansen, et al, the Cats are a formidable crew.

Perhaps another pressing problem in Hamilton is that many of these tried and true Canucks are over 30 years of age and have lost that extra step which is often needed.

With Ottawa and Hamilton in the same grouping a two-game playoff could leave the survivor battered and an easy victim for the Grey Cup bound Calgary Stampeders.

At least this is the way this scribe is calling it for November 30.

PRESTON AT THE BAT

The team looked slightly pallid at the Madoc Park that day; For the score was five to two, with an inning left to play; So, when Murph went out at second and Danford did the same, The deadly nine were sure they knew the winners of the game.

Bernadette and Sharon Holden, Marlene Carswell and Elaine; Prepared to leave the hopeless lot; defeat was their acclaim: For they knew that only Preston could change the score a bit, And chance was slim for Preston ever getting up to hit.

Now Wood preceded Preston and also Evy Ash; But the first was batt'n fouls, and the second none too fast; So they listened to the multitude of jeering fans they missed; For Preston's name was staggered as the fourth upon the list.

But Wood, she hit a double as the lacking fans yelled wild; And the much-advised Evy struck the ball, though only mild. As the ball and she careened on first, the baseman missed her play, How Wood and Ash made one base more stays a wonder to this day.

With one in front of Preston now, and a Donaldson at that, The crowd was awed and breathless as "mom" sauntered up to bat. She gave a smile of triumph as she threw her hat behind; And no one in the crowds could tell the play within her mind.

But the first ball was a high one and the second hit the ground; Though the umpire called strike "one and two", to the pitcher on the mound. The third ball caught her unprepared, she swung and heard the "thud"; With home behind, "mom" Donaldson touched first base through the mud.

Then from the loaded benches to the station cross the way; Came thundrous shouts of "come on, girls", to a team that's bent to play. Then the crowds were hushed to silence, as the runners tensed with pain; It was up to Preston now to change the ending of the game.

Fifteen hundred eyes were on her as she sauntered to the plate; But she yelled, "I'll have to hurry for I have another date". Then from the fiery pitcher, the first ball seemed to fly; "Strike one", as Preston scolded "Wasn't that a little high?"

From the multitude of people, there came a monstrous roar; Of cheating umpire standards that would now effect the score; But Preston only shook her head, bade silence with a hand; And let the game proceed with hope, like sponsors in the stand.

With "Let's play ball" to the pitcher, once again the white streak flew; And while Preston still ignored it, the umpire called "strike two". This time the crowd went wild; from the stands his name they screamed: And they really would have maimed him if not Preston intervened.

The smile went out of Preston's face, her eyes they glared with hate; The third ball never stood a chance as she struck across the plate. There are little folk in Madoc who still see the flying sphere; No one even seemed to notice as her players drew her near.

Oh, somewhere in this lakeview town, the rain may always fall; And somewhere little children cry and birds may cease to call; And somewhere boys are very scarce, when some girls sit alone; But Madoc girls are happy now — for Preston hit them home!

There is a rumour current on the street that there was a baseball match pulled off here between Belleville and our own pets on Tuesday night. A citizen told us once that if we couldn't say something good about an event to say nothing. We have nothing to say about this event.

Miss Vanaalstine brought into this office one hill of a variety of potatoes known as the New Brunswick. With the exception of two, they were all good sized potatoes. The total weight was four pounds. The stalks were still green and doubtless the potatoes would have grown larger. Fifteen such hills would yield a bushel, which at the present market price would be $1.00. Behold the possibilities of potato culture in the Village of Madoc.

Writing home from Sussex, England Pte. James Meraw reports well. He speaks of having met Ptes. Tom Callery of Madoc, Dan Barry of Queensboro and Paul Cournoyea of Tweed.

The young ladies of Mrs. Geo. West's Sunday School class held a lawn social on August 1st, on St. Peter's Church grounds. The object of the social was to furnish funds for Red Cross purposes. The attendance was large and the sum raised was very gratifying, $124.50 being raised. The guests were served with ice cream and lemonade and treated to a musical program furnished by the band and the quartette, consisting of Messrs. Ross, Kincaid, Tummson and Lloyd. Mrs. West's class wish to make mention of the assistance rendered by John Burkitt who, in order to do his "bit" toward winning the war, gave his services voluntarily in the electric lighting of the grounds.

And now the ration book burglar has made his appearance. The Prescott Journal reports that a thief who entered a house in that town, while occupants were asleep, ignored everything else to carry off eight coupon ration books issued to members of the household. This leads the Ration Administration to renew its plea that coupon ration books, being valuable documents, should be well guarded and not left lying about where they can be picked up by intruders.

Mrs. T. H. Rupert was the holder of the lucky ticket which won the fowl donated to the Red Cross Soc. by Mrs. Ernie Smith. Tickets were sold by Mrs. Smith and her daughter, Fern, and the $12.10 realized was given to the Red Cross Treasurer.

Cpl. Thos. Hawthorne, R.C.A.F., has returned to the East Coast after spending a furlough with his mother, Mrs. W. Hawthorne and Stanley.

Sidney Reynolds of Kingston Military staff spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Arthur Rogers.

Jean Kernohan (W.D.) R.C.A.F., Galt, is spending the weekend at her home in Madoc.

Master Robert Coveney is spending his holidays with his Aunt, Mrs. F. Cronkwright, in Trenton.

O.S.T.E. Burnside spent the weekend at his home in Madoc.

Births — In Marmora Village on Saturday, August 7th, 1943, to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Holland, a daughter.

In Madoc Village on Wednesday, August 11th, 1943, to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alexander, a daughter.

Marriages — Wallace A. Fleming, son of Mrs. A. and the late Alexander Fleming of Ivanhoe, and Aileen Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Fleming of Ivanhoe were married at St. Andrew's Manse on Saturday, July 31st, by Rev. W. H. V. Walker. The young couple were unattended.

On Saturday, July 24th, the wedding took place in St. Catharine's Church when Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Meraw of Tweed, became the bride of Mr. Damian Cassidy, Stoco. Rev. Dean D. A. Cullinane performed the ceremony. Two nephews of the bride were altar boys.

Miss Angellique Meraw of Detroit was her sister's bridesmaid and Mrs. Dorian Stewart, sister of the groom, matron of honour. Mr. Guy Hughes of Stoco supported the groom. Miss June Whalen played the wedding music and soloists were Jean and Mickie Meraw and Ted Collis of Peterborough.

Death — Mrs. Arthur Holland of Eldorado died at her home, Eldorado, on Sunday, August 8th, aged 55 yrs. Surviving her are her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Cecil Boyle.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and his Liberal party were returned to power at Ottawa in Monday's election.

Through the courtesy of Pigden's

Radio and T.V., citizens of Madoc Village received the election returns over a loud speaking system shortly after the polls had closed. Connection by radio from Pigden's brought returns as they were announced by the Canadian Press and returns from our own riding. Both local candidates spoke over the system from the Review Office. Mr. "Clute" Foster said he had just come from Mr. George S. White's office, where he had conceded the election to Mr. White and had congratulated him. A few minutes later, Mr. White, the successful candidate, spoke, expressing his thanks to the people of Madoc Village and throughout the riding.

A New York contracting company has the contract to erect all the buildings on the property of the Bethlehem Steel Company at Marmora, which will be one of the largest construction programs undertaken in the district. Operations will take a year to complete and from 75 to 100 men will be given employment as well as a large engineering force of the contracting company.

On Tuesday evening a rousing charivari was tendered the newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy (nee Loretta Agnes Hogan) when they were treated to a thrilling experience by their Millbridge friends.

They were escorted to a decorated old fashioned buggy which was placed in a dump truck, doing the "dip and dive" to the tune of various noise makers including the good old buzz saw and guarded by four stalwart gentlemen who never gave them a dull moment. Many cars accompanied the parade to Millbridge Village and upon their return to the bride's home, the charivariers were promised a dance by the groom which was held on Friday evening in Millbridge Town Hall. The dance was attended by a large gathering of friends who danced to the good music provided by Mr. John Murphy, piano; Mr. Foster McKilligan, violin; Jack Wilson, guitar; and Don Sprackett, guitar, who also performed as official caller for the square dancing. At midnight, tasty refreshments were served, after which Mr. Ray Armstrong, who acted as Master of Ceremonies, called upon the bride and groom to say a few words. Both John and Loretta thanked everyone for the friendship and good fellowship shown them and for the many lovely gifts received.

BURNSIDE OPPOSES TAX CHANGE

Hastings County government spokesman last week opposed any changes in business tax structures across Ontario.

Madoc Reeve Tom Burnside, heading a county council delegation to the legislature's select committee on taxation, warned that changes in current tax systems could hurt the small businessman.

He based his remarks on a proposal of the Smith commission on taxation that all business tax be a blanket 50 per cent of business assessment.

"Business taxes in Ontario municipalities are now staggered — with various rates applying to different commercial operations.

Retailers, professional men and industries pay contrasting business taxes.

"Any change in this system would be detrimental", said Reeve Burnside, "to the small retail merchant in particular.

"It seems to me that an unfair situation would develop (if the Smith proposals were accepted)", he warned.

BELL LINES

By C. H. Buckley
Your Telephone Manager

Look what an important month August has been. Columbus sailed from Spain in August, 1492. Talking motion pictures were shown for the first time in New York City in August, 1896. The first message by Atlantic cable was sent in August, 1858. World War I began in August, 1914. World War II ended in August 1945. The Red Cross was established at Geneva, Switzerland in August, 1864. The world's first Long Distance telephone call was made August 10, 1876, between Brantford and Paris, Ontario.

August 18th this year sees the introduction of Econo-Pak service which offers a package of Long Distance calling to individual line residence customers. This new service provides 60 minutes of Long Distance calls a month from your telephone to any number of points that you might wish to call within your home province provided that they are served by Bell Canada dial telephones. Charge for the total 60 minutes is only $10.00. All calls will be timed on a per minute basis. Econo-Pak service rates are available between 12 noon and 8:00 p.m. any day in the week. For full details, just call your Business Office at Zenith 60.000.

My "Spies" are at work again and word they are sending back from visits to Man and His World in Montreal glow with enthusiasm. It's Expo without the jostling crowds but all the sparkle and world-in-miniature interest of last year. Two of the more eye-catching buildings have changed character inside this year. The former British Pavilion, now topped by a gigantic flag of Montreal, features the Music Belfry and has become a meeting-place for music lovers. The other section of the building has become Cars of Yesteryear where exhibits pay tribute to the pioneers of the automobile. The 20-storey geodesic bubble, which last year housed the American exhibit, has been transformed into a fascinating aviary and garden area — really, an exotic indoor park. Some 800 birds of 150 different species are housed in enormous cages. In fact, in one section, visitors walk in to a tropical garden to be greeted by flamingoes, peacocks, toucan birds with their huge beaks, and dozens of other brilliantly colored birds from tropical lands.

Several new exhibits are fascinating visitors this year. The Humor Pavilion gives a fun-filled look at the lighter side of life: Dolls representing people from the five continents and the way they dress provide a lesson in history and is a veritable museum of man in the Mirror of Man Pavilion. The Telephone Pavilion now has two sections. Canada '67 brings back the thrilling Walk-Disney Circle-Vision 360 film. The other section of the building is now Montreal 326 and recalls the 326th anniversary of the City of Montreal. Poland and Ireland are two new participants in Man and His World. And for those who wish to relive Expo '67 there is a memorial pavilion where the great moments are remembered. A collection of flags of the participating countries, costumes worn by the hostesses of the various nation pavilions, slides, photos, reports and newspaper clippings are all there. Again this year, Man and His World seems to be the place to visit for a comfortable, quick voyage around the world.

DEAR DORIS

advice from
Doris Clark

Likes his strippers

DEAR DORIS — On my husband's day off we went to the city and he wanted to go to a girlie show, where all the women dance and gyrate and take their clothes off. I said no. He didn't say anything but stood in front of the show and sulked and begged me with his eyes.

Finally I told him to go in and I just walked around. We had another row about it on the way home. Doris, please set me straight if I'm all wet. Dad never went to these places and I never heard of any of this before now.

Married One Year
DEAR MARRIED — It is a shock to you; but it is as bad as it sounds? Many older married couples find they can either take this sort of thing or leave it alone. It doesn't rock their marriage.

What does a man see in a girlie show? Physical excitement and stimulation, nothing more. Does your own too-controlled attitude toward sex leave him vaguely unsatisfied? Before passing judgment — any more — try to learn more about physical expression and what it can mean to a man. I'm sending you my list of recommended books.

DEAR DORIS — I am 24. I am the only son of a mother who still tries to dominate me. I was always alone and never did make close friends. I am a teacher, but not a very good one.

A psychiatrist summed up my problem by saying that I need, first of all, to accept myself and only then will I be able to change myself. My shoulders are stooped, my arms very skinny and I have become very fat around the abdomen. I never did learn to skate, dance, etc., so here I am in misery.

DEAR WHAT — An overbearing mother has left you little self-respect. I'm wagering those shoulders will straighten when you get some pride in yourself.

The change and the self-acceptance go hand in hand. If you could begin a physical improvement regime — with the help of a Y membership or health centre — you would look better to yourself. You would feel better.

The next thing is to shake off your mother's influence and give yourself to warmer friendships with both sexes.

DEAR DORIS — My boy friend and I have talked about getting engaged but I'm afraid that before I can even think about marriage, I've a lot to learn.

I would like information about sex and marriage. I was unfortunate in that I never did find out much for myself and was never told.

Clueless
DEAR CLUELESS — Parents who neglect to enlighten boys and girls are saying, in effect, that they are not concerned with their offspring's happy fulfilment.

Young people need to understand the connection between affection and love, and the relation of love and sex, as well as the pitfalls tied up with infatuation and careless surrender.

I'm sending you a list of recommended reading in Sex and Dating. In some places there are helpful pre-marriage courses for engaged couples, so make enquiries where you are.

To Seniors In Search of a Club — More than one club has fallen apart because there was no other objective than selfish pleasure.

Better identify a community need and begin something to help meet it. Seniors can raise money through a talent fund. You can make cakes and sell them; one of the Old Boys can do repairs to furniture on his work bench. And so on.

Pool your efforts and one day you'll have something real to throw a party about.

GOVERNMENT URGED TO USE TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Last week the government was urged to make full use of Canada's telecommunications companies as the most economic and effective way of implementing a Canadian satellite communications system.

The recommendation was made in a brief presented to Postmaster General Eric Kierans, Minister-designate of the proposed federal department of communications, by the Trans-Canada Telephone system and CN-CP Telecommunications. The brief was in response to a Government White Paper on satellite communications issued in March.

The telecommunications companies said that if the government decided to establish a satellite corporation and participate in its ownership, "we are prepared to co-operate fully, and place our experience and resources at the service of the Canadian public."

Public interest demands that Canada's limited technical manpower and finances, be used with the greatest possible economy and efficiency in developing a satellite system and assuring its proper integration with the terrestrial communications network, the brief continued. It stated that the telecommunications companies were able to make "a unique and valuable contribution in terms of experience, available facilities and skilled workers, together with specialized knowledge of requirements and technology."

It maintained, however, that the telecommunications companies' original proposal of May, 1967, to finance, build and operate a satellite system remained sound and economical, meeting the "test of public interest" without any expenditure of public funds.

Should the government decide on a joint satellite corporation, the brief recommended:

1. The corporation should be established under joint financial ownership, on an all-equity basis, with principal share allotments assigned to the government and the telecommunications companies. The general public might eventually be offered shares, but it should be recognized it might be many years before the corporation became a profitable entity.

2. Management of the corporation should rest with a board of directors selected on the basis of equity ownership.

3. The corporation should function as a wholesaler of satellite channels to the telecommunications companies and other major regulated users, using a full satellite channel as the basic unit for rent.

4. Ownership of the system's facilities should be shared by the corporation and the principal users. The corporation would own the satellites and those earth stations directly associated with broadcasting would be owned by the broadcasters or the government department involved.

5. The terrestrial communications network, including connecting equipment in the principal earth stations, should continue to be owned and operated by the telecommunications companies.

6. The telecommunications companies should co-ordinate the planning for provision and utilisation of facilities since the public already looks to them for overall quality of communications services.

The brief stated that the telecommunications companies already have a $4 billion network in operation with facilities being added to the value of $500 million annually. They have the trained manpower and the research and manufacturing knowhow which have provided Canadians with telecommunications services unsurpassed in the world in terms of quality, scope, value and innovation.

It pointed out that the economic justification for a domestic satellite system is its long-haul voice and data telecommunications capabilities together with T.V. distribution. But solely as a solution to the problem of arctic communications or of T.V. distribution to remote areas, it would not be economically viable for many years.

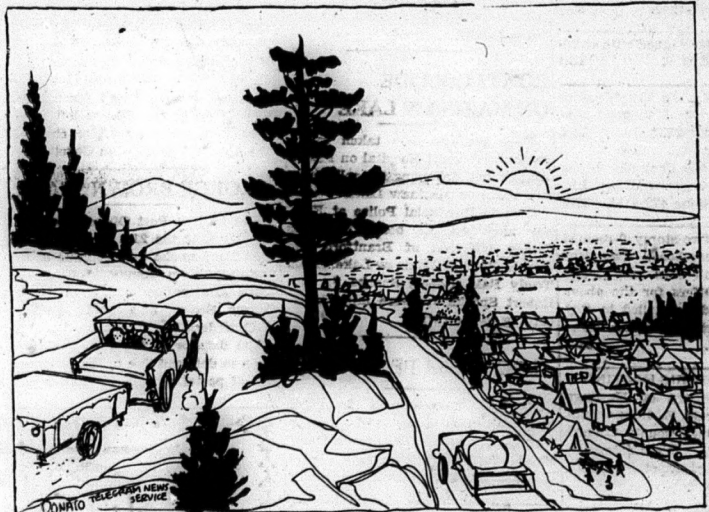

"It is essential that the satellite and microwave systems be fully integrated," the brief stated.

Secretary on phone: "Our automatic answering device is away for repairs. This is a person speaking."

WANNAMAKER REUNION

Over 200 guests enjoyed the beautiful sunny day to attend the Wannamaker Reunion at Tweed Park on July 21st, coming from most parts of Hastings and Prince Edward counties, Napanee, Oshawa, Brooklin, Petawawa, St. Catharines, Brantford, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

About 12 o'clock all sat down to a pot luck picnic dinner under the clear skies and as the weather was so nice and there was so much visiting to do, most of the guests stayed for supper.

Prizes were given to the oldest man, Mr. Ira Bristol of Springbrook, the oldest lady, Mrs. E. J. Wannamaker, Corbyville, the youngest baby girl, Catharine Bronson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bronson, Madoc, youngest baby boy, David Adams, 7 week old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Adams, Madoc. The ones coming the farthest were Mr. and Mrs. George Butcher of Coquitlan, British Columbia, the ones coming the farthest distance and returning home after the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wannamaker, Brantford. The largest family was Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wannamaker, Bancroft, with 8 children present, youngest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams of Peterborough, married eleven months, the longest married couple were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wannamaker of Middle Lake, Saskatchewan, married 51 yrs.

Mrs. Kenneth Thompson retired as president, and Mr. Art Young of Bancroft was elected the new president, with Mr. Loral Wannamaker as vice president and Mrs. Emil Wannamaker of Madoc as secretary-treasurer. Mr. Reginald Loney supplied the loud-speaker system. It was decided to hold the next reunion at the same place on the third Sunday in July and that each member wear a name tag.

The young children enjoyed swimming and playing in the pond and each child received a balloon and candy, while the older members were visiting and going over the family history that Mr. Loral Wannamaker has compiled over the years.

Doctors report that cheerful people seem to resist disease better than do grumpy people. In other words, "the surly bird catches the germ".

THEIR CHOICE—Although Pope Paul's encyclical has disallowed the pill and other birth control devices within the Roman Catholic Church many Catholic families across Canada feel the decision of a family should be left to them. It is predicted that many people will leave the Catholic Church rather than submit to the Pope's edict. —THIS Photo

MADOC-TWEED LADIES
BOW DEFEAT

With just playing five innings due to threatening showers during the game, Springbrook defeated Madoc-Tweed ladies 16-10 last Thursday.

High point hitters were Bev Carter, Donna Preston and Elaine Johnston, with a nice little bunt. Mary Murphy supplied us with a home run, which greatly increased our playing spirits.

We're hoping that in the return game we will even the score. Some of us are using a positive attitude already.

Triumph for the Madoc-Tweed Ladies — With the season coming to an end, Madoc-Tweed ladies defeated Kaladar 18-2 on Tuesday night.

The highlight of the game was a home run by Donna Preston. Other high point hitters were Joan Wood, Betty Danford and Elaine Johnston. "The whole team was still playing up to par", reports the coach.

Coming games are listed as: Thursday, August 15th, 7:15 p.m., Tweed Park, Madoc-Tweed vs. Foxboro; Tuesday, August 20th, 7:00 p.m., Madoc Park, Madoc-Tweed vs. Arden. Let's support your team. It's good for a laugh!

BOATS COLLIDE
ON MAZINAW LAKE

Four persons were taken to the Belleville General Hospital on Friday, August 2nd, following the collision of two boats on Mazinaw Lake.

Ontario Provincial Police at Kaladar identified the boat drivers as James Jefferson of Brantford and Ronald Bahn of Mazinaw Lake. Bahn, Trudy Bald, Robert Sparks Sr. and Robert Sparks Jr. were injured, according to the police.

COUNTY PRINCESS AT
C.N.E., AUGUST 24th.

Always a highlight of the various activities at the Canadian National Exhibition, the twelfth annual Dairy Princess Competition will be held at the C.N.E. later this month.

The competitions are sponsored by the Canadian National Exhibition, the Ontario Milk Producers Co-ordinating Board and the Ontario Department of Agriculture, with dairy industry supply firms and dairy processors assisting.

Miss Gail Thompson of R.R. 2, Roslin, the Hastings County Dairy Princess, will take part in the competition at 6:00 p.m., Saturday, August 24.

Miss Thompson hopes that Hastings County visitors to the C.N.E. will attend the competition on that date and lend their support.

Opposes Postal Strike

A Postal Strike should not be allowed to occur again. Such matters must be settled by arbitration. This is a public service. Like the Army, those who choose to enter it should know that it is an essential service, that millions are effected by the demands of a few thousand and the whole economy of the country suffers. Personally, if we were dissatisfied with our job, we'd quit for another, and no doubt the job we left would soon look more attractive than we thought. — From Picton Gazette.

GEORGE BROWN STAMP

The Canada Post Office announced Monday that the 21st of August has been fixed as the date of issue of the postage stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of the birth of George Brown, one of the Fathers of Confederation.

The date originally set as August 7th was deferred due to the interruption of postal service.

FLEMING FAMILY
REUNION

The Fleming family gathered recently at the Tweed Park to enjoy their annual family reunion. Some 150 enjoyed a picnic lunch at noon.

The President, Mr. Clifford Ray, conducted the formal business necessary to such a gathering and welcomed all the families present.

The afternoon was spent in competition among the children for the prizes offered in games and races in the playgrounds.

The next reunion is to be held at Zwick's Island on the third Sunday in July and all the clan is encouraged to join in the reunion.

WHAT IS MEANT BY KILLING A LAKE?

A lake is an item of geography and none of the earth's surface features last forever. The mighty mountains have life spans lasting many millions of years. Compared with them, a lake has a very short life span.

It may fill up and dry up after a few thousand years or choke to death after just a few centuries. In nature, this is the normal course of events.

But the hand work of mankind often upsets the earth's natural schedules and balances. When we speak of killing a lake, we mean that human activities are hastening it toward its end.

The balancing factors of nature keep a lake supplied with fairly fresh water that is evaporated and run off by drainage streams is replaced by rain and inflowing streams. It supports a balanced community of plants and animals.

When strong sewage and chemical wastes are dumped into the lake, this balance is upset. Fishes and other creatures are poisoned or starve because their natural food has perished.

Failure is the line of least persistence.

WEDDING

CHATTERTON - ROBINSON

On Friday, August 9, 1968, at 7:00 p.m. in Madoc Free Methodist Church, a double-ring ceremony was officiated
by Rev. G. W. Sedore, when Dorothy Jean Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson, became the bride of Carl Thomas Chatterton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Chatterton of Kingston.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of peau de sole and organza lace with daisy applique and a matching Cathedral length train, bordered with daisies. Her shoulder length veil was of nylon lace caught with a double crown of daisies. She carried a cascade of red roses and white feathered carnations.

Miss Ann Chatterton, sister of the groom, was maid of honour. Karen Robinson of Bowmanville, sister-in-law of the bride, and Catherine Tully of Toronto, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. The attendants wore floor-length capri blue chiffon gowns with long lace sleeves and bodice and matching headresses. Each carried a cascade of tinted blue chrysanthemums.

Miss Lynn Chatterton, sister of the groom, was a charming train-bearer in a white dress and matching headdress.

Mr. Douglas Chatterton of Oshawa, brother of the groom, was bestman and Allan Corneli of Port Credit and Carl Robinson, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The candle-lit church was tastefully decorated with white gladioli and tinted 'mums. Wedding music was provided by Miss Joan Brownson of Madoc, at the organ, and Mr. Floyd
Stenburgh of Marmora as soloist.

For the reception held in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church Parlours, the bride's mother wore an aqua tulle dress with white accessories and a corsage of feathered carnations. Wearing a blue lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of white gar-denias, the bridegroom's mother assisted in the receiving line.

A sumptuous turkey dinner was capably served by the church ladies.
A three-tier wedding cake, topped by three bells and doves, centered the bride's table.

Rev. G. W. Sedore was master of ceremonies.

For a wedding trip to points west, the bride chose a figured blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of gold orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Chat-terton will be residing at 395 Mac-Donnell Street, Kingston, Ontario.

CELEBRATED 25th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Woods, Oshawa, will be pleased to learn that a very pleasant surprise was afforded them by their family and relatives on the occasion of their twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary, while they were vacationing at Moira Lake.

It was fitting that this anniversary should be celebrated in the Madoc area, where the couple spent their early years and where they were married August 21, 1943; later moving to Thorton Road South, Oshawa, where they are now living.

They were the recipients of numerous gifts and many hearty congratulations.

PASSED CADET LEADERSHIP COURSE

Jeffrey Rose, 16, returned home on Sunday, after successfully passing a six-weeks Cadet Leadership Course at Camp Ippervash.

Cadets from all over the world were at the camp, including four from Madoc.

The best cadet athlete at the camp was George Price of Actinolite.

INTERMEDIATES WIN, JUVENILES LOSE

By defeating Gosport 4-2 at the Madoc Ball Park last Thursday night, Madoc took the second round of the play-downs in two games and will now meet Verona in the third round.
The first game of this series will be played in Madoc tonight.

The Juveniles didn't fare so well and lost their first game of the play-downs to Port Perry, 6-4. The second game of this series will be played in Madoc this Saturday night when the locals believe they can tie the round and force a third game.

DEAR DORIS

advice from
Doris Clark

Drone for a son

DEAR DORIS — I would like to know if there is a legal way I can literally throw my 18-year-old son out of the house. Am I still responsible for him and any debts he may incur?

This boy has two trades — one shoe repair, which he worked at all of two months, and voice training for a radio disc jockey. The latter is what he wishes to do and he flatly refuses to do any other kind of job.

Right now he sleeps until noon and loafs the rest of the time.

Fed Up

DEAR FED UP — No one wants a drone in the hive. You have no responsibility for his support, and would be within your rights in asking him to leave.

Where is father in all this? Are you raising your boys alone? An absent or ineffectual father means a mother carries a double load. If your boy ever does get that dreamed-of job, he'll have to take on moral stature overnight to keep it. A clear case for family counseling. Seek it.

DEAR DORIS — I have been married six years and have three small children. After four years my wife took sick and went to hospital. Complications set in, with permanent brain damage to speech and motor areas.

She is now in a nursing home, coming home to visit only for a few hours. She has lived longer than the doctors anticipated.

Now I have fallen in love with a young girl who is willing to love me in spite of the difficulties. My children need a mother and are very fond of this girl.

I understand divorce in Canada is possible only through adultery. Not desiring a divorce through adultery, what can be done in our situation? We want to make things right.

Aching Heart

DEAR HEART — Suing yourself for divorce on grounds of your adultery wouldn't work anyway.

Being tied to a hopeless invalid is tragedy. But as long as your wife breathes and can look upon her dear ones, even occasionally, you owe her your loyalty. And the young girl you have wooed and won, unfairly, should be set free.

Waiting for someone to die is a poor way to solve a love triangle. If your sick wife lingers on for years or even improves — and this could happen — how will you face the broken or long-deferred hopes of the lass who has believed in you?

Shoulder your burden like a man. If the time ever comes when you can go to her as a free man, your conscience will be clear.

To Golden Years — For your age and height, you should weigh between 130 and 140 pounds. Weight tends to increase slightly with the years; but we no longer think that "a few extra pounds" are good for you.

To Family Cook — With the whole family miserably ill, you must have been thoroughly alarmed. Here are the important ways to avoid food poisoning:

- (1) Patronize clean stores;
- (2) Buy meat bearing stamp of government approval;
- (3) Reject frozen foods which have thawed;
- (4) Store frozen foods in deep freeze;
- (5) Do not allow foods to go through a "thaw-freeze-thaw" sequence;
- (6) Keep perishable foods refrigerated and use them as quickly as possible.

A leaflet bearing the title "Why Get Ill From Food?", prepared by the Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, tells more about food poisoning. Ask for it at your local health department.

Confidential to Still a Student — I like your determination to graduate before your son does — after several years of contributing to the household purse.

I have a friend who, with four school children, now attends fourth year university to finish what she started as a single girl. Little Sandra's playmate asks, in a morning, "Where's your mother going?" Sandra says, "To school."

Playmate: "What grade's she in?"

FOX REUNION

The eighth annual Fox Reunion was held at the Tweed Park on August 11th, with an attendance of 75. It was a chilly day, but a bountiful meal was enjoyed by all.

After the dinner, Albert Fox president of the Reunion, opened the business part. Two minutes silence was held in honour of Leslie Holmes of Detroit, Michigan, who passed away in the last year, and a Bible was presented to Luella Brickman to be given to the family. Luella accepted the Bible and spoke for a few minutes in memory of her brother.

It was moved and seconded we hold the Reunion at the same park and same date next year.

Election of officers was President, Albert Fox; Vice Pres., Luella Brickman; Secretary, Gladys Graham; Committee for prizes and sports, Sylvia Bailey and Linda Graham, Cy Coulson and John Druff.

Laura Blackman presented her prizes as follows: one coming the farthest, Marion Schutz; Guessing jar of jelly beans, Luella Brickman; Guessing correct black jelly beans, Doug Fox, Toronto; one with most buttons on her dress, Linda Graham; the father with the most sons present, Bob Fox, with 5 sons present; one with the lucky ticket, Cy Coulson; Nail driving contest, Ladies, Audrey Fox, Men, Dale Graham; one with birthday closest to picnic, Dale Graham; Shoe Kicking contest, Luella Brickman; a peanut guessing game, Lois Kelly, and she received the peanuts and bowl as the prize.

A corsage was presented to Margaret Fox, the oldest one at the reunion and the youngest baby was Lois Kelly's baby, four and a half months. Girls birthdays, 1-6, closest to reunion, Jennifer Dolan; 7-12, Julie Coulson; Boy's Birthday, 1-6, Barry Fox; 7-12, Tommy Coulson.

Races were held for children of all ages and candy bars and suckers were passed out to all children present. Also a peanut scramble was held. A ball game was enjoyed by everyone, even those not taking part. Many stayed and enjoyed a lunch and then another reunion came to a close.

PEARSON NAMED TO HEAD COMMITTEE

Former Canadian prime minister, Lester B. Pearson, was named Sunday to head an international commission charting a new strategy for helping the world's under-developed nations.

Announcing the appointment, World Bank President, Robert McNamara said Pearson's group will study "one of the most urgent problems facing our world, the division between a relatively few rich nations and the great majority of the world's peoples who remain poor."

The commission will report by the end of 1969 on "strategy for aid and development for the next 10, 20 and 30 years", and on the World Bank's role in the future, McNamara said.

McNamara said the Canadian elder statesman will head a commission "of persons drawn from around the world, who have had experience with and shown capacity for understanding world problems and offering leadership in their solution". Pearson announced he will select commission members in the near future.

The World Bank president said the group "should review the impact of external assistance on the development of the poorer nations over the past two decades, noting where it has been most successful and where least," and should try to identify the causes of relative success and failure.

He called on the commission to consider "methods of giving assistance and the orders of magnitude for that assistance which appear necessary over the next decade and the next generation in order to ensure a reasonable hope of sustained and eventually self-sustaining growth in a number of the lesser-developed countries."

THE BIG FAIR. The Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto is world famous for its many attractions, but as far as the youngsters are concerned, the only place to go at the fair is on the midway. Crushing crowds are commonplace along sawdusted paths winding through the area of rides and games of chance. A record attendance figure is expected this year.—TNS Photo

Our mass media

You know, that postal strike wasn't all bad. I know it was a great inconvenience for some people, and meant a real financial loss for others.

But there was a certain quiet satisfaction in knowing that you didn't have to answer those urgent letters. There was relief in the thought that you wouldn't be getting three or four bills every day. And there was positive pleasure in not being bombarded by advertising flyers and other third-class mail.

In short, there was a slight hiatus in our daily scramble. Of course, the day of reckoning came, when all the bills came in one bundle, and there was no way of putting off writing those letters. But there was a little peace there for a while in at least one aspect of our bedevilled lives.

It started me thinking about what would happen if the entire communications system was tied up by strikes. Everything: telephone, television, radio, newspapers, the lot. Do you think we'd survive?

I do. In fact, if the whole noisy, bothersome business ground to a halt for a couple of months, we'd probably all live a couple of years longer.

Those who would suffer most would be the young and the old. Taking away the squawk and thump of their transistors from the ears of teenagers would be like tearing a baby from its mother's breast. Robbing the elderly of their morning news and their evenings with the Beverly Hillsbillies re-runs would be a cruel act.

But I don't think the rest of us would suffer. I think we'd thrive and grow fat and calm and interested in real life, on a couple of months of peace and quiet.

Those who have been out of touch with "civilization," on a hunting or fishing trip will know what I mean. One simply does not miss the ominous headlines, the grave news reports, and the assorted garbage contained in our mass media.

In such conditions, a newspaper is for lighting a fire with, or cleaning a fish on.

Radio is completely unnecessary. Lack of telephones means that nobody can get at you with bad news. And sitting around a fire with friends is a lot more enriching than sitting around watching third-rate old movies.

Indulging in the mass media, or surrendering to them, or allowing them to rule your day, is merely laziness and habit. And the deeper you sink into the slough of words, the harder it is to break out.

Some people are addicted to the morning paper. It's like the first cup of coffee or the first cigarette. They are surly and uneasy until they unfold it. And what do they get? Wars and rumors of wars, strikes and rumors of strikes, a lengthy rehash and expansion of last night's TV news, pompous editorials stating the obvious, and assorted junk.

Some never read a paper at all, but depend on their news from the radio. The thing goes all day long with a steady stream of commercials, semi-hysterical disc-jockeys pouring forth piffle, and the same news and weather reports, almost verbatim, every hour. Don't think this doesn't erode the soul.

Some make the telephone their news media. They're not interested in world or national news, but only in the local gossip, and they literally spend hours a day exchanging inanities with other addicts. I would not care if we never had a telephone in the house. One of my mottoes is that no telephone call is ever worth answering.

Then, of course, there are some people who are hooked on all forms of communication. As a result, they never read a book, never think an original thought, and can be led around politically by the nose.

These mass media add a lot to life, but they take a lot away as well. Under their constant barrage, we fail to cultivate our own garden.

I'm all for some quiet. Would you like to try it?

REMINISCING

Taken from the Review files of 50, 25 and 15 years ago.

50 YEARS AGO
August 22, 1918.

Fall Model School opened on Monday of this week.

School opens on September 3rd, and parents starting new pupils are requested to remember that there is a vaccination order and should act accordingly.

From one of our Lake Correspondents:—"Returning from Madoc late one evening last week, we were surprised at the unusual sight of a lady and gentleman leaving the road and entering the woods carrying a bed and mattress. Thinking that this must be some new campers' craze our curiosity impelled us to follow and investigate further. On hearing our approach, they eluded us and penetrated further into the woods. When this occurrence was several times repeated, we decided they wished to avoid pursuit and we returned to the road and proceeded homewards. Seeing an abandoned car on the roadside, it became evident to us that the usual breakdown had occurred and that some fellow campers had been compelled, like the man of old, to take up their bed and walk. Imagine our surprise on recognizing the car as one belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Usburn of Cobalt.

Our feelings of amusement were changed to sympathy and we decided to proceed to their cottage and offer some assistance there. However, we just arrived in time to recognize two weary travellers staggering home under their burden. We thought that our aid was no longer required so decided it would be kinder not to make our presence known.

Born — At Maplehurst Farm, Eldorado, on August 7th, 1918, to Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Conlin, a daughter, Mildred Margaret.

Death — Word has reached Madoc that Pte. Milton Weese of Madoc has been killed in France.

The first Mobile Donor Clinic was held in Madoc on Wednesday morning, August 18th, and proved to be very successful. Sixty-five donors from the country and village attended the clinic and cheerfully offered their blood donation.

We were pleased to receive a visit from Mr. Harry Wright, a former Madocian, who recently retired from business in North Battleford. Mr. Wright, who left Madoc 34 years ago, was born here and is renewing many of his old acquaintances. He stated "that Madoc has improved considerably in appearance during the past years" and he is impressed by the many beautiful trees. He also stated that the village appeared to be very prosperous.

Sgt. Jack Armstrong of the R.C.A.F. left Friday for Calgary, after spending his furlough in Madoc. Official word has been received stating that Capt. Donald Brown Whytock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Whytock, Madoc, has officially been listed as missing in action, resulting from the fighting in Sicily.

On Monday evening, August 9th, a large group of friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brownson, Eldorado, to bid farewell to their son, Kelvin, of the R.C.N.V.R., before leaving on another voyage after spending his leave with his parents, friends and relatives. A presentation address was read by Billy Nickle, which was signed on behalf of friends in the community, by Wm. Nickle, Ford Chambers and Frederick Stewart. The boys then presented Kelvin with a Parker pen and pencil set and a leather billfold, containing a sum of money.

HURRAH, THEY'RE BACK. Canada's 24,000 postal workers have resumed normal duties, but according to officials, effects of the 22-day-old strike could be felt for many weeks. The backlog of mail was so great that even a herculean effort by the posties will not be able to overcome the pileup entirely.—TNS Photo

VICTORY FOR MADOC-TWEED LADIES

On Tuesday night the Madoc-Tweed ladies played the last game of their schedule against Arden.

High scorers of the night were Betty Danford, Mary Murphy, Donna Preston, Bernice Derry, Jo-Anne Donaldson and Bev. Caterer, Bev. getting the only home run of the night. Madoc-Tweed picked up 14 hits in the second inning followed by four in the fourth and six in the fifth.

Although darkness threatened in the last two innings, the Madoc-Tweed girls defeated the Arden girls 24-1 to place first in the league.

Many thanks to the Cloyne girls for their assistance in filling in during our exhibition games against Foxboro and Harold. Our only fear is having to play against them during the playoffs in the weeks that follow.

Starting Thursday night the playoffs begin between Madoc-Tweed and Cloyne in Flinton, followed by Sunday night in Madoc at 8:00 o'clock under the lights.

May we have a good turnout by all of our friends and fellow villagers for our Sunday evening game.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to everyone for the gifts and good wishes we have received since our marriage. A special thank you is extended to the people of the community for the Sofa and Rocker presented to us and to those responsible for making our party and chivaree so enjoyable.

Ted and Linda Sexsmith.

MADOC INTERMEDIATE SOFTBALL TEAM ENTERS CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

Madoc Intermediates are on the winning side of the ledger once again this year as they seek the all-Ontario Intermediate C Championship. This team already has an Ontario Juvenile title plus last year's Junior C title and have bolstered their team with some added softball strength from Tweed. The Lasage brothers, Roy and Terry, were first to sign, then Paul Meraw and Eldon Gray were added to the list. Bert Sherry then decided to come out of retirement, making a strong fielding team, as well as a powerhouse club with the bats. The fine pitching of Larry Griffin, Daryl Kramp and Eldon Gray make this the strongest ball club ever to represent the area. Speed and hustle from Doug Green, George Atkinson, Garry Owens, Harold Bailey and Ab. Reid mixed with the above veterans, makes coach, Charlie Hamilton confident they will and can go all the way.

Playing all year in the Trent Valley Softball League has seasoned this team for the Ontario Palydowns.

The local softball fans can be assured of softball at its best when the Madoc Intermediates meet Verona Intermediates in Madoc on Thursday evening, August 21st, at 8:30 p.m., for the Zone 4 Championship.

Madoc Intermediates also meet the high-flying Trenton Intermediate B Club in the Trent Valley Softball semi-finals next week.

Many hours of painstaking practise has gone into getting this club ready. Now you can come out and support this club by cheering them on to victory. They deserve your support and you will be guaranteed the finest in softball entertainment.

CRYSTAL BEACH TO CLOSE SEPTEMBER 15th

CRYSTAL BEACH MADOC PARK entertained the boys from the Ontario Training School, Cobourg, this week.

Elizabeth and Bill Hawthorne set aside their five and one half acre Island for Scout Groups that register at their camp. A group of boys from Merlin, Ontario, used these facilities this week. The picnic facilities were enjoyed by the Ellis and McMurray families. The park will close for the season on September 15th, and Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorne have notified the Review that they have tried to promote another LARGE HOLIDAY WEEKEND AT THIS TIME.

Special events start September 13th and 14th, with a closing day Sand Castle Carnival, Camp Cook-Out and the usual Nightly Dancing and Ball Games along with Limbo and Twist Contest, Nature Trail and Beaver Dam escorted hikes; Island Scavenger Kiddies Cruises; Turtle Races; Coloured Slides; Masquerades and Sing Songs. Bring your tent and trailer and see first hand how Elizabeth and Bill Hawthorne have entertained their thousands of guests this year. CLOSING DATE FOR THE BEACH, SEPTEMBER 15th. RE-OPENS VICTORIA DAY WEEKEND, 1969. WE ARE OPEN 24 HOURS DAILY for the tent and trailer visitors to Hastings County.

A Message to District Farmers . . .

HAY & PASTURE MIXTURES—The 'HARD SELL'

This autumn will bring another parade of out-of-town salesmen canvassing door-to-door for your orders for farm seed mixtures. We would like to caution against such purchases by pointing out a few factors that may not occur to you:

Prices:- The extra cost of wages, automobile and travelling must be included somewhere in the price. An unnecessary expense for you.

Service:- Your local man is in a far better position to alter your order, exchange if necessary, or adjust any discrepancies.

Recommendations:- We conventional dealers follow the general recommendations of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Our forage mixtures are relatively simple and are "purpose designed" for top yield potential.

Cancellations:- Once you have signed an order it is almost impossible to cancel for any reason. Your local dealer does not require a legal contract to cover every future order.

Your local supplier is every bit as well informed as the average itinerant salesman and has a good deal more at stake in your community. He is available to you at all times for "after sale" information and service at your convenience.

Although we cannot call on every farmer in our trading area, we will be glad to visit those who feel that we can better assist them in selecting mixtures by making a personal visit. Either fill out and mail the attached coupon or simply telephone collect our Farm Seed Department (968-5533) and ask for a representative to call. We have had the privilege of serving, both directly and indirectly, the farmers of this community for over half a century and wish to assure you that this service continues to be our prime interest.

Sincerely,
BISHOP SEEDS LIMITED.

Third party bid

In the lull between the Republican party nominating ritual at Miami Beach and the Democratic party's gathering in Chicago, the most serious third party bid in more than a generation is gathering force in the United States.

It is led by a man who must qualify for the ideal native American fascist — former Alabama Governor George Wallace.

Wallace and his American Independent party pose a threat to stable government in the U.S. far more serious than any minority government crisis ever experienced by Canada.

Wallace could prevent the American people from choosing a President next November.

With the U.S. presidential campaign about to begin in earnest, public opinion polls credit Wallace with the support of about 17 percent of American voters. In the South, this rises to 35 percent.

The position which Wallace has achieved far out-reaches the last Southern rebellion against the Democratic party, which came in 1948 with the organization of a States Rights party (Dixiecrats) to oppose what was for that time a radical civil rights plank pushed through by Hubert Humphrey.

Wallace began his drive for a straight flush in presidential politics at the door of the University of Alabama in 1962. Then governor of that state, he went through the political charade of pretending to block Negro students and federal marshals from integrating the school.

Using the governor's office in Alabama as a national sounding board, Wallace began to attract attention as the most violent remaining anti-segregationist governor in America. He condemned the civil rights movement as a Communist plot, cultivated the white backlash against Negro unrest into an attack on "crime in the streets," and called for total victory in Vietnam.

Wallace played the role of a spoiler in the 1964 Democratic presidential primaries. He ran up significant percentages in several northern states and would probably have launched a serious Presidential campaign but for the nomination of Barry Goldwater. As a result, the Republicans carried several southern states as Goldwater appealed to the same segment of voters as from which Wallace had drawn his strength.

The organization of the American Independent party in itself represents tremendous political skill, dedication and considerable unexplained financial support. It is not easy to get a new party on the ballot of most American states, but Wallace has managed to do this, starting with California and continuing through a wide crescent to Florida.

Wallace will not be on enough state ballots to win the Presidency in November even if he did have the backing of a majority of Americans.

But because of the American voting system, Wallace could prevent either the Democratic or Republican candidates from winning a majority of electoral votes. (The candidate who gains a bare majority of a state's popular vote wins ALL of that state's electoral vote. In turn, the candidate with a majority of electoral votes becomes president.)

If Wallace should be able to win enough Southern states to prevent either major party candidate from gaining a clear majority of the electoral vote, the election will be decided by the House of Representatives. And it is Wallace's hope that if this happens, he will then be able to horse trade his support to the candidate willing to meet the demands.

In this event, George Wallace, not the American people, would decide who is to occupy the White House and what policies the new president is to pursue at home and abroad.

The threat of this becoming reality has so shaken American politicians that proposals have been made to abolish the electoral college and to elect the president by straight popular vote.

Commenting on the Negro riots in Washington, he told one election rally, "I'll see that it's safe to walk the streets of Washington if I have to put soldiers on every corner."

WATER POLLUTION BLAMED FOR KILLING OUR BEACHES

Sewage and industrial effluents from Canada's major cities are killing fish and driving bathers away from previously pure and popular waterside recreational areas.

Canada, with more fresh water than any other country in the world, is facing the problem of policing this resource and keeping it pure.

A cross-Canada survey by the Canadian Press shows that Ontario, with more than two-fifths of the nation's population and a major part of its heavy industry, is experiencing most of the water pollution problems.

In Ottawa, pollution in the Rideau River has forced the city's medical officer of health to close two popular beaches in the central section of the city.

Ottawa officials believe raw sewage draining from suburban Nepean Township into the Rideau accounts for the problem.

Although Lake Erie suffers some of the worst pollution in the province, an Ontario Water Resources Commission spokesman said much of the lake is unpleasant to swim in, but not unsafe.

LET'S RETURN TO THE RETURNABLE

During the postal strike writers of Letters to the Editor were remarkably determined to continue expressing their beefs, though it put them to the cost and inconvenience of sending them by wire or bringing them in by hand.

A considerable number of these missives dealt with the question of non-returnable bottles for soft drinks. Reading them over — both the printable and unprintable — one is forced to the conclusion that Ontario citizens, excluding those with special interests such as soft-drink and bottle manufacturers and supermarket managers, are virtually unanimous in their opposition to non-returnable soft-drink bottles.

It is therefore interesting to note that municipal politicians have also been getting the message. At the Ontario Municipal Association meeting this week in Windsor, some dozen municipalities, mostly cities, presented a resolution calling upon the provincial government to ban non-returnable bottles, and the resolution was passed by the association.

Premier John Robarts should listen to these voices of the people, for they not only almost certainly speak for the great majority of Ontario voters, they speak sense.

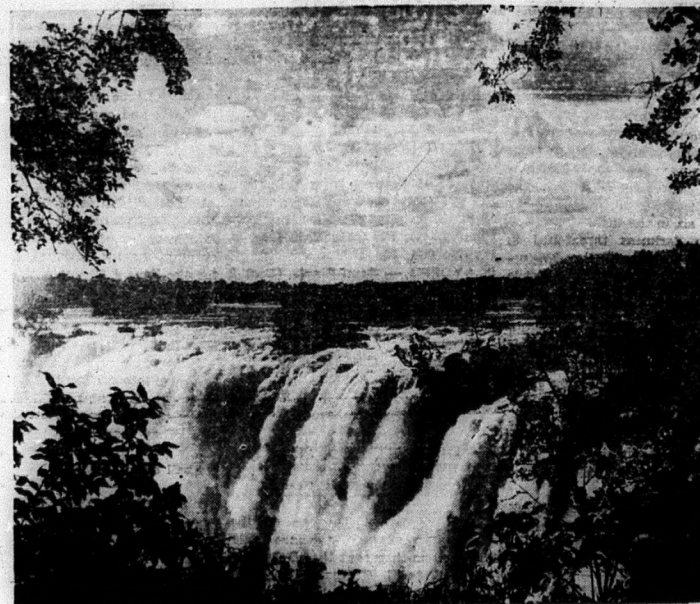

Those who defend the bottles argue that they were produced in response to a demand from the public. This is nonsense, for the public had no way of expressing such a desire. The non-returnable bottles were simply foisted on shoppers, by the method of gradually withdrawing returnable bottles. Where the public has spoken, through letters and its elected representatives, it has voted no. Why, indeed should it favor the added cost — which it will pay — of useless bottles that clutter unbearably its summer garbage cans?

The other arguments, that bottles are only one cause of litter and no more important than any other, that nobody has complained of non-returnable bottles containing such items as ketchup, that public education is the only way to insure that people do not litter streets and highways, are equally without validity.

Soft drink bottles are a dangerous form of litter. People do not consume quantities of ketchup in a public place; hundreds of thousands of them and especially children, do consume vast quantities of pop in public places. When the bottles were returnable, they created an army of child clean-up experts, hired for the job by the money they got for returns. When the bottles became non-returnable, the children broke them, as any habitué of any of our parks or beaches knows full well. Broken bottles cut feet, have caused, in fact, many serious injuries — as abandoned candy-bar wrappers or cigarette boxes do not.

As for the public education program, practically the entire surface of this continent proves that North Americans are incurable litter-bugs, despite all the clean-up campaigns, despite the fines — in some cases, large fines — for tossing out refuse. Education campaigns just don't work, not in our present state of civilization.

Mr. Robarts should act on the advice of the municipal leaders and ban non-returnable pop bottles. He should do it because it is the sensible thing to do, but more importantly because it is — if he made a genuine test of public opinion — what he would find the majority of Ontario people want; and he was elected to serve them, not special interests.

Almost everybody will be affected by these changes in the Ontario Highway Traffic Act

Turn Signals: Four-way flashers may be used to indicate a disabled vehicle or emergency situation. Turn signals must not be used for this purpose and should be used only when the motorist intends to turn, change lanes or move from a parked position. Effective September 1, 1968.

Flashing Green Signal Lights permit exclusive left turns as well as permitting traffic to turn right or proceed straight through while conflicting traffic at the intersection is stopped. Effective September 1, 1968.

Pedestrians must not cross the street on a flashing green traffic light except where pedestrian "Walk" signals are displayed. Then they should obey signals. Effective September 1, 1968.

Riding in House or Boat Trailers is prohibited. Effective September 1, 1968.

Walking on Highways with speed limits of 50 mph or higher may be prohibited by municipal by-laws. Effective immediately.

Attaching Oneself to a Moving Vehicle is prohibited. Effective September 1, 1968.

Licence Suspension up to 30 days for speeding 30 mph or more over the limit is now at the discretion of the convicting magistrate. Effective immediately.

A Resident of Another Province of Canada who drives in Ontario must have a valid driver's licence issued by his province. Such driver must obtain an Ontario licence upon becoming an Ontario resident and surrender his current driver's licence issued by such other province. Effective immediately.

Used Motor Vehicles: Private Sales: Unless the new owner of a used motor vehicle can produce a certificate of mechanical fitness to the Ontario Department of Transport (notice of a sale or transfer must be given within six days) he must surrender the plates and an Unfit Vehicle Permit will be issued. After the vehicle has been made fit, plates can be obtained by producing a certificate of mechanical fitness. Effective November 1, 1968.

A Dealer must now surrender the licence plates of a used motor vehicle to the Department at the time of the sale unless he is able to give the buyer a certificate of mechanical fitness or unless he is selling to another dealer.

Farm Tractors, self-propelled farm implements and any vehicle being pulled by either of them must carry a "Slow moving vehicle" sign of a specified design when operating on the highway. Effective September 1, 1968.

Wider Vehicles and Loads. The permissible width limit of 96" has been increased to 102". Effective immediately.

Motorcycle Helmets that meet specified standards must be worn by operators and passengers. Effective September 1, 1968.

Certain Municipalities may Exempt Themselves by By-Law from School Bus Regulation requiring operators to flash red signal lights when stopped to pick up or discharge passengers where the speed limit is over 35 mph (Metropolitan Toronto and satellites, Metropolitan Ottawa and satellites, London, Windsor and Hamilton).

In municipalities that pass such a by-law, school buses will not flash red signal lights and other traffic will not be required to stop. Effective immediately.

Motorized Snow Vehicles will be regulated by special legislation.

THE SPORTS BEAT

By Glen May

Gabler has matured

When you chat with Argonaut quarterback Wally Gabler you immediately are engulfed with a feeling of ease. This personable young man is in his third season at the helm of the Good Ship Argonaut, and judging from past performances, it will be his most successful.

Wally is blond-haired, muscular, friendly, unassuming and a fine athlete. And, let it be stated, here and now, Mr. Gabler is a gentleman in every respect.

Wally is currently (this column was written August 9) playing out his option. In laymen's terms this means that he is employed by the Argos until the end of this season and his salary is reduced by 10 percent. If he does not come to terms with his employers during the season or shortly after, it is likely he will find employment elsewhere, probably in the United States.

Various scribes on the football beat have suggested Gabler is seeking a $50,000-a-year pact.

To this he replies: "I wish they'd negotiate for me. I haven't mentioned money to anyone but coach Leo Cahill and general manager Lou Hayman."

How much is he after? Wally would not offer the exact amount, but he feels his "figure is reasonable and doesn't expect any problems. I'm playing a waiting game and my figure is not unfair."

"I want to play with the Argos, but we're in football to make money. I know the money is available. They offer a lot of money to a rookie but not the veterans. I gave them a one-year figure, but I'd be willing to go for a long pact if the money was right."

"If the Argos don't give me what I want I would get employment in the United States. I know the money is available there

"The other players tease me about not signing, but there's no bad feelings about it."

"If I don't sign during the season, then my price will be higher. It's to my advantage to wait, the longer the better. I'd want more then because I would have lost money during the year." Gabler feels he was "just learning" during his first two seasons with Toronto. Now he is confident he has gained the necessary experience "to do the job."

A perfect example of the new Wally Gabler could be summed up in this remark: "If my line and backs don't do the job then I'm no good. The backs are paid to run with the ball and I'm paid to direct and throw the ball."

Don't you hear the talk of a mature quarterback?

Gabler isn't predicting an Argonaut onslaught this year in the Eastern Conference, although he says, "we have as good an opportunity as anyone of getting to the Grey Cup... we can go with anyone."

However, he looks for a tight race with the conference winner coming away with a won-lost record of about 8-4.

Wally is positive a college quarterback cannot make the adjustment to professional football in one year. He explained that it takes two or three years just to recognize defenses and be able to adjust on pass-patterns when the prime receiver is covered.

The more he talked the more knowledgeable he sounded. It brought to mind a remark last year made by a Toronto sportscaster who asked coach Cahill: "When is Gabler going to grow up?"

Last year Cahill couldn't find an answer. This year he wouldn't have to find an answer as the question won't be put forth.

WEDDING

CRAWFORD - DUNLAY

White and peach gladioli with white bows designated the family pews at Trinity United Church in Roslin, on Saturday, August 10, 1968, when Miss Sharon Diane Dunlay of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dunlay, Roslin, was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon Louis Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Crawford of Madoc. Rev. George A. Puttenham performed the double ring ceremony.

Wedding music was played by Joan Rollins of Carrying Place, who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Darlene Buchanan of Carrying Place.

Given away in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of Swiss organza, styled with an Empire waistline. The bodice and short sleeves of Venetian lace over nylon complimented her gown. The Cathedral train fell softly from two self bows at her shoulders and was of matching Venetian lace, edged with organza. Her headpiece was many tiers of scalloped silk illusion flowing from a cluster of organza and seed pearls. She carried a crescent shaped cascade bouquet of white starlet roses and baby's breath with stephanotis forming a trail.

Miss Diane Demorest, maid of honour, dressed in a pale green floor-length gown of peau de soie, featuring an Empire waist, round neckline, and bell-shaped sleeves. The back of the dress was complimented with a large bow and floor length streamers. She wore a matching wedding-ring hat with a short veil, white accessories and carried a hand bouquet of miniature carnations tinted with peach. The two bridesmaids, Miss Lynne Lewis and Miss Margaret King dressed in peach coloured gowns similar to the maid of honour and carried bouquets of pale green tinted carnations.

Little Misses Jean and Barbara Dunlay, both sisters of the bride, were gowned in white floor-length dresses with lace yokes and sleeves and taffeta skirts. They wore white accessories and carried baskets of tinted miniature pale green and peach carnations.

Mr. Patrick Quinn of Goderich,

Ontario, was bestman and the ushers were Mr. George Crawford of Brockville and Mr. Jim D. Dunlay of Belleville.

For the reception held in St. Paul's Anglican Hall, Roslin, the bride's mother received the guests in a beige peau de soie sheath dress with an overlay of deeper beige Chantilly lace with a cowl collar of beige peau de soie, matching beige hat and white accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Dressed in a two-piece Wedgewood blue crepe dress with a lace jacket and white accessories, the groom's mother assisted in the receiving line. Her corsage was of white roses.

Centering the bride's table was a three-tier wedding cake made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. David Hanna, Stirling, formerly of Madoc.

For travelling, the bride chose a three-piece pale pink linen suit, black patent shoes and purse, white hat and gloves and a corsage of miniature white carnations.

The couple will reside at Madoc.

Out-of-town guests were from Niagara Falls, N.Y., Barrie, Ottawa, Kingston, Toronto, Windsor, Brockville, Goderich, Belleville and Trenton.

BELLEVILLE FAIR ATTENDANCE JUMPS

Attendance for the full five days of Belleville fair was up 3,421 over the figure for last year.

Paid admissions this year totalled 35,623. This excludes children 12 yrs. and under, who were admitted free.

Total attendance in 1967 was 32,202.

Friday's downpour dampened the enthusiasm of fair goers and lowered the attendance figure from that of the same day last year.

However, the number admitted to the grounds Saturday climbed to 7,174 — 1,229 more than on the last day of the fair in 1967.

EIGHTY KILLED IN ACCIDENTS

At least 80 persons were killed in weekend accidents across Canada, 65 in traffic.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6:00 p.m., Friday, to midnight, Sunday, local times, also showed seven drownings, three persons killed in a fire and five deaths from other accidents.

Quebec had the worst toll, with 32 dead — 29 in traffic, one drowning, and two persons asphyxiated.

At least 24 persons died in Ontario, 20 on the roads and four by drowning. Six were killed in one collision at Plantagenet, Ontario.

British Columbia reported three road deaths, one drowning, three persons killed by fire and a man hit by a train.

Nova Scotia had six deaths — all in traffic.

Five persons died in New Brunswick, three in traffic, one by drowning and one in a miscellaneous mishap.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba both recorded two traffic fatalities, and one man was killed when his light aircraft crashed in Alberta.

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island were fatality-free.

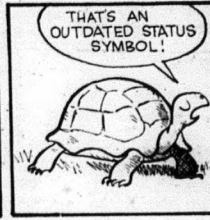

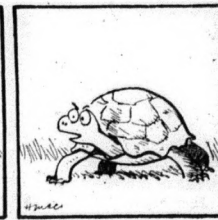

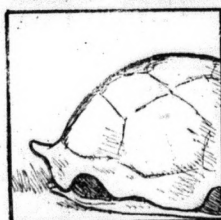

Known suicides and slayings, natural and industrial deaths are not included in the survey.

Marriage is a process for finding out what sort of man you would have preferred.

INTERMEDIATES LOSE TO VERONA

The Madoc Intermediates lost a close 3-2 decision to Verona in the third and deciding game of the third each team had won a game, Verona winning at home, 6-2, and Madoc winning here, 5-2.

Last Saturday night, the Juveniles tied their series with Port Perry, and will now meet in a third and deciding game to be played in Peterborough at 2:15 p.m. on Sunday afternoon, September 1st.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TO HAVE FOUR PORTABLE CLASSROOMS

When school reopens in Madoc Village next Tuesday, there will be ten additional classrooms. The public school Board recently ordered four portable classrooms which are expected to be ready for use with the re-opening of school.

Centre Hastings Secondary School will have six additional classrooms, which are now ready for occupancy in the Madoc armories.

"AT HOME"

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay Cooney will be "At Home" to friends and relatives on Sunday, September 1st, from 2:00 to 4:00 in the afternoon and 7:00 to 9:00 in the evening, at the residence of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cooney, R.R. 3, Frankford, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

"AT HOME"

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lindale will be "At Home" to their friends and relatives on the occasion of their 25th Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, September 8th, from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. and from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. 34-2

MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Trutter of Perth wish to announce the marriage of their daughter, Gwendolyn Pearl, to Mr. Allan J. D. McGuire, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis McGuire of Hull, Que. Wedding to take place September 14, 1968, at eleven o'clock at St. John's Parish Church, Wilson Street, Perth, Ontario.

MADOC-TWEED LADIES BEGIN PLAY-OFFS

Madoc-Tweed Ladies won their first play-off game Sunday night in Madoc against Cloyne, the only rival team, with a score of 17-12. Although showers on Thursday night brought them their first game under the lights on Sunday night, it also brought the fans. Thanks go to Glen Nickle for the donation which made it possible for the ladies to see the ball game under the lights.

This game pushed them on to Flinton Tuesday night, August 27th, to bring home their second victory, with a score of 26-21 against Cloyne. The game was called at the end of the sixth inning since it was impossible to see the ball or even the spectators.

Every player was on her toes this night (some were on their knees), as Betty Danford, Sharon Holden, Mary Murphy, Elaine Johnston, Bernie Derry and Bev Caterer brought in 3 runs each. The editor recalls mentioning the fact that whosoever brought in three or more runs in an evening, their name would make the headlines. Every player tried to be famous, but no player has yet topped mous, but no player has yet to top Donna Preston, third base player from Thomasburg, who brought in 5 runs of which one was a home run - shows what Donna can do when her temper is stretched.

The Madoc-Tweed ladies play in Madoc Thursday night against Cloyne at 7:00 p.m. for their third and last (we hope), game in the three over five point play-offs.

They also play the Tannery girls in Madoc Sunday night. We need your support fans. Don't let us down. With a little encouragement, we'll win again and victory will be ours for this season.

Notice in shop window: "Wanted - Clerk to work eight hours a day, to replace one who didn't."

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming of R.R. 2, Madoc, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Beverly Anne, to Mr. John Brynley Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mitchell, R.R. 9, Picton.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, September 14, 1968, at 3:00 p.m. in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McKillican announce the marriage of their older daughter, Jacqueline, to Mr. Carlos Cecil Frewin, D.A., D.P.H.E., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis C. Frewin, 28 Heather Road, Agincourt, on Saturday, August 31st, 1968, at four o'clock p.m. at St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, Madoc.

Hounding the hippies

One way of judging the calibre of municipal leadership is by watching reaction to the presence of hippies in a community.

If the reaction is hysterical, inconsistent and somehow out of focus with the treatment of other social problems, it can be assumed that maturity and judgment is absent in the council chambers.

The phenomenon of the hippies is a distinct social development of the 1960s. It is evidence of deep underlying problems in our society. Yet the reaction of too many political leaders is entirely punitive. Their idea seems to be either to punish the hippies for being that way, or to shove them on to some other town where they won't be blighting our property values or business turn-over.

One of the most laughable attitudes, and one which prevails especially in Toronto, is that toward something which Toronto's mayor Bill Dennison describes as the "hardened hippie." You see, there are really two kinds of hippies, according to these people. Those who are out for a bit of innocent weekend fun, and then the fierce, gruesome, "hardened" hippie who must be hounded and punished at all costs.

There is plenty of evidence around that most hippies come from homes where there are serious emotional and psychological disturbances. In most instances, they are fleeing parents who are unable to offer them the mature love and guidance which adolescents need.

Because their gathering in large numbers sometimes creates health problems (such as the hepatitis scare which upset businessmen in Toronto's Yorkville district because... well, not because some hippies were ill, but because that was scaring the money-laden tourists off), it is now advocated in some quarters that hippies be punished for being what they are.

Toronto obviously cares more about the welfare of cars then the welfare of people. Witness the decision of the Board of Control to deny a responsible local group use of an old firehall as a shelter for hippies. Instead, it will be torn down and used as a parking lot.

The suggestion in Regina by health minister John Munro that penalties for offenses involving marijuana be reduced has predictably brought loud protests from police. Munro says flatly that marijuana is not a narcotic.

But it is not only in Toronto that civic leaders either cannot, or refuse to, recognize that the kind of social illness which produces hippies cannot be stamped out by punitive action. This is really very little different in principle from the medieval practice of chaining the insane and whipping them for good measure.

Montreal's mayor Jean Drapeau, the man whose initiative and imagination gave this country Expo and his city a major league baseball team, becomes hysterical when you talk about hippies. Hound them out of Montreal because they might offend tourists, he apparently believes.

In British Columbia, the city council of New Westminster, in an action for which it clearly has no constitutional right, bans the sale of a hippie paper on the streets because "it is not a family paper." The paper in question, the Georgia Straight, is only faintly pornographic compared to the thousands of hard core obscene and sick pocket books which are merchandised on every newsstand in that city.

There is growing support for the idea that municipal politics needs to be brought into some kind of mainstream of political life in this country, so that more mature people will be attracted to this important level of public affairs. The only way of doing this will be to establish party politics on the municipal level, to give some common sense stability and leadership to political decisions in local affairs.

OBITUARY

MRS. SAMUEL F. MCGUIRE

Suffering a heart attack on Wednesday, August 21, 1968, Mrs. Carrie McGuire, Madoc, and a former resident of Belleville for many years, died suddenly at her home.

Mrs. McGuire was born in Madoc 81 years ago, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald. She had resided in her native village for the past nine years but for many years she resided in Belleville, where her late husband, Samuel F. McGuire, was employed with the Canadian Department Stores and then Eatons.

She was a member of Trinity United Church. Fraternally, she was a Past Worthy Matron of Belleville Chapter No. 55 of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Surviving is one son, Harry F. McGuire, Toronto, three grandchildren, Mrs. R. (Carle) Murdoch, Harry McGuire Jr. and Miss Sandra McGuire, all of Toronto. Also surviving is one great grandchild and a beloved cousin, Harry McDonald of Toronto. A grandson, John McGuire, predeceased.

The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon, August 24th, from the Mackenzie Funeral Home, Madoc, to Trinity United Church, where service was conducted by Rev. V. Tozer.

Bearers were: Robert O'Riordan Sr., William Gilbert, Ross Rollins, Leonard Winters, Michael Quinn and John Harwood. Interment took place in Lakeview Cemetery.

September 23, 1968, commencing at 1:30 p.m.

All articles to be auctioned may be viewed during the normal working hours, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. for three days prior to the sale and from 8:00 to 12 noon on the day of the sale.

Further public notices will be made giving more details of the sale.

How to Qualify for a Hunting Licence

Prospective hunters under 20 years of age and applying for their first licence must take a course on safe gun handling and be certified by a qualified Hunter Safety Instructor, appointed by the Minister of Lands and Forests. This procedure is mandatory before applying for the standard examination conducted by a Conservation Officer.

It is not necessary for a person 20 years of age or over to be certified by an Instructor, but it is highly recommended that he take a course.

Application forms (Ex. 10) for a hunting licence examination may be obtained at any Department Office or at the local licence issuer.

To hunt in Ontario, a person must either present his previous licence or a certificate showing that he has successfully completed a hunter safety examination.

In the Tweed District, examinations will be held at the following places, dates and times.

* Bancroft — Chief Ranger Office, every second Wednesday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

* Tweed — Chief Ranger Office, first and third Wednesday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

light is the bluish emanation from a television tube. But, back in the days when houses had front porches that supported creaky wooden swings fireflies were the cheapest nocturnal attraction available to a generation not yet surfeited by entertainment.

Fireflies are slender beetles capable of moving slowly in the air like a helicopter. While in flight, the male firefly blinks a signal from the lantern that is built into his abdomen. The light may flash yellowish or reddish, depending upon the species of firefly. The light may flicker rather rapidly, like the signal lamp on a ship offshore. Or, it may be a longer, slow glow emitted at a languid pace. At least one species of firefly leaves its lamp steadily lighted while it dips and rises through a U-shaped arc of flight.

The intermittent flashes from a dozen fireflies may interest front-porch sitters. But the fireworks display draws a more intense response from female fireflies that are hidden in the taller grass on or near the lawn. When a female sees the proper number of dots and dashes signalled by a gentleman of her species, she responds by turning on her lamp. Most females seem to be poor fliers, and some cannot fly at all.

The language of love among fireflies has interested scientists because there is no heat in it. In all artificial processes of generating light, there is a heat by-product. Some types of bulbs generate less heat than others, but some degree of heat always is present.

The firefly's lamp contains a chemical called "luciferin." Mixed with luciferin is an enzyme known as luciferase. When the firefly wants to glow, it permits oxygen to enter tubes that lead to the lamp. The presence of oxygen is necessary to activate the lamp. The necessity of oxygen tends to add to the mystery of how cold light is produced, rather than to explain it. In all our processes of light production, it is the hotter ones that require oxygen — like the bonfire, for instance.

REMINISCING

Taken from the Review files of 50, 25 and 15 years ago.

50 YEARS AGO
August 22, 1918.

In accordance with the time honoured custom among country newspapers of ceasing publication for a short time during the summer, there will be no issue of the Review for the next two weeks, August 29th and September 5th. The next issue of the Review will be September 12th. The office will remain open and our whole staff will be present to do job work during the two weeks.

25 YEARS AGO
August 26th, 1943.

Dept. of Education officials recently announced that Ontario schools will open September 7th. Asked whether some students would be allowed to remain a few weeks to assist in harvest operations, the officials said, "that matter will be taken up with the new Minister of Education. Last year school opening was delayed several weeks to permit students to help in the fields."

Madoc High School Fall Term will begin Tuesday, September 7th with the following staff: Miss E. MacDermid, B.A., Principal; Mr. D. C. Drinkwater, B.A., Mr. H. W. Garfield, B.A., Miss Isobel Morton, B.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Broad received a cable from their son, Lieut. C. H. Broad, stating that he was safe and well. Cliff went overseas last December and is now serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regt. in Sicily.

Mrs. Wilbur McCoy of Belleville has received word that her husband, L. Cpl. Wilbur McCoy, has been wounded in action. Wilbur is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert McCoy of Eldorado.

Mr. R. R. Hannah of Cooper was quite proud of his afternoon work one day last week, when he cradled, bound and set up a patch of oats containing forty-six sheaves. Mr. Hannah recently celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday, which makes his harvesting operations rather unusual. When in his prime he considered it a good day's work to cradle four acres of grain.

Weddings — A pretty wedding was solemnized on Monday, August 8th, 1943, at United Church parsonage, Bloomfield, when Rev. Melville Butters united in marriage Helen, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whiteman of Madoc, and Floyd, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Nobel Walker of Bloomfield. The bride was attended by Sgt. Frances Walker of Barriefield, sister of the groom, and Mr. Clifford Pooley of Bloomfield, supported the groom.

Deaths — Mrs. Elizabeth Hart, widow of the late Charles E. Hart, died at her home on Thursday, August 19th, aged 75 years. She is survived by two sons, William and Edward of Madoc and three daughters, Mrs. D. Mawson, Steenburg, Miss Evelyn Hart of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, and Miss Lillian Hart of Belleville.

Miss Mary Jane Fleming, Ivanhoe, died on Saturday morning, aged 86 years. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Fleming and is the last of her immediate family.

15 YEARS AGO
August 27th., 1953.

Aim of Canada's Civil Defence services for dealing with disaster is broadly to minimize the toll of catastrophe in terms of human suffering, to keep loss to a minimum, to maintain production and bolster the "will to fight, where there is a hostile force to combat, and to maintain the "will to come back" from natural calamity. Since Civil Defence, in its very essence, is the assurance of the continuity of community services, the main operational responsibility, aside from overall planning, training and co-ordination falls on those local municipalities which are called upon from day to day to maintain the normal amenities of life in Canada's urban communities and other organized areas. Thus, Civil Defence authorities point out, self-help and mutual aid — keys to the defeat of disaster — are responsibilities of each and every citizen.

Mrs. George Empey and Mrs. Joseph O'Neill had the experience on Tuesday evening of being lost in a berry picking expedition in North Marmora. When they failed to return to their respective homes at supper time anxiety was felt by the members of their families, which increased as the evening wore on. A search was organized by Police Chief Gordon Caldwell with groups of residents who knew the particular area, going in various directions toward the area around Crowe Lake where the women were reported to have gone. The searchers found the two women about 2 p.m. in a deserted cabin about two miles away, little worse for their experience.

Births — Mr. and Mrs. Bill Theuerkauf (nee Kelly), Sidney N.S., are happy to announce the birth of a daughter, Sheryle Joanne, on August 17th.

At Val Titreau, Que., on Thursday, August 20th., 1953, to Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Bulger (nee Agnes Barry), a son, John Michael.

At Mrs. Keller's Nursing Home, Madoc, on Thursday, August 20th., 1953, to Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Moon, a daughter, Pamela Patricia.

Wedding — The wedding took place in St. Andrew's United Church parsonage, Marmora, on Saturday afternoon of Phoebe Joyce Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Frederick Keller of Crookston, and Donald Alexander Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrew Fleming, Hungerford Twp. Rev. K. J. Crawford officiated. The attendants were Mr. Jack Nicholas Fleming of Madoc and Miss Donna Margaret Bronson of Tweed.

6th ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL WRITERS' CONFERENCE

"Chinese people are just like ourselves", asserted Lynn Harrington of the Canadian Authors' Association, Toronto, who with her photographer husband, has made three trips to Communist China and has published three books on China.

Mrs. Harrington was speaking on the topic, "Writers Around the World" at the 6th Annual International Writers' Conference, and the only annual one held in Canada, at the Madoc

In answers to questions the author admitted that the Chinese government was a different matter and recent events in Czechoslovakia gave bite to the question. About Cuba, she indicated that it was communistic like China, but felt that the press was a little freer in Cuba, "except that nothing detrimental to Castro or the Government could be published."

Kay Pohl, local writer and former teacher in the district, spoke on Drama. "Modern drama is going around in circles", she said, and that's why there has not been a good play on Broadway in the last ten years. She told her listeners, "study Shakespeare where there is a beginning, a middle and an end, with a theme and a plot to sustain it, if you want to be successful in writing drama."

Clyde Bill, editor and co-publisher of the Tweed News, under the topic, "What the Editor Wants", told of his various experiences as a writer and publisher. The most hilarious was when he was the Women's Editor of the Ottawa Journal. Following his talk, a personally conducted tour was made of the Tweed News printing plant.

The most market-conscious person at the conference was Eleanor Marshall from Camden, Mass., who has published over 2,000 articles in magazines such as Reader's Digest, Travel, etc. Her advice to all beginning writers was "first study the market and then write an article that will suit of creating fiction that will live". He also described briefly the elements of humour in an article.

Sally Saunders from Narbeth, Pa., poet and teacher of poetry, gave a practical demonstration of how to create poetry by actually having the writers present produce poetry which was later read aloud.

Chairman of the Conference was Roy Cadwell, Director of the Centre.

Because of the postal strike, not as many attended as in previous years, but those who did attend described it as "the best conference we ever attended." Writers were of all ages, but only two sexes. The youngest was 15, but those who were older, despite how writers love to talk, were not prepared to tell.

Modern mathematics: "The number of blasts that come from auto horns in a traffic jam is equal to the sum to the squares at the wheels.

IN MEMORIAM

VOLLOCK — In loving memory of Howard Wesley Vollick, who entered into rest August 30, 1965, at St. Mary's Hospital, Kingston, Ontario.

As I loved you, so I miss you;
 In my memory you are near —
 Loved, remembered, longed for always.
 Treasured with a love sincere.
 You are where I cannot see you;
 And your voice I cannot hear;
 Yet I know you walk beside me:
 Never absent, always near.
 Ever remembered, ever loved, sadly missed by wife Gerlie.

LAVENDER — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Dale, who passed away September 2, 1963.

In our hearts he is here to stay;
 Loved and remembered every day.
 Dad, Mom and Linda.

GLOVER — In loving memory of Sgt. W. A. (Fred) Glover, killed in action, August 26th, 1918.

Honoured among the nation's heroes lies our loved one
 Beneath a simple wooden cross, his crown;

And we who knew and loved him here can say

A simple love, a simple trust, a simple duty done.
 Lovingly remembered by the family.

CARD OF THANKS

Will someone please tell me how I can say thank you so that all my neighbours, friends and my family will really know I mean it and to those that came to see me every day. Also those that sent me ten beautiful baskets of flowers; 86 cards; six boxes of chocolates and two baskets of fruit; to all the sweet nurses and lovely doctors, for without you all I never would have made it home.

Again, thank you.
 Sue Gordon.

WEDDING

ADAMS - SMITH

Two o'clock, Saturday, August 24, 1968, Trinity United Church, Madoc, was the setting for a pretty summer wedding when Carole Lillian Smith, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George F. Smith, was united in marriage to Mr. Ralph Mitchell Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Adams of Madoc. In a surrounding of baskets of various coloured gladioli, Rev. Tozer performed the ceremony.

Mr. Stanley Hawthorne was soloist.

The bride's floor-length gown was of floral brocade, featuring bell sleeves and a matching train, trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of long-stemmed red roses, with a white satin ribbon.

Miss Beverly Perrie was the bride's only attendant and she wore a floor-length gown of blue brocade with white accessories and carried a nosegay of pink roses.

Mr. David Adams of Madoc was bestman and ushers were Mr. Wayne Carswell of Belleville and Mr. Alan Dale of Madoc.

For a buffet lunch served at the groom's home, the bride's aunt, Mrs. James Smith, received the guests in a blue flowered silk dress, white accessories and a corsage of red roses. In a turquoise and nylon lace coat over a rayon taffeta sheath, white accessories and a corsage of pink baby roses, the groom's mother assisted.

A three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, centered the bride's table.

For travelling, the bride chose an A-line yellow and white dress of acetate crepe trimmed with lace and a corsage of yellow roses.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at Apt. 5, 14 Highland Avenue, Belleville, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Smith Falls, Belleville, Elgin, Oshawa, Bancroft, Trenton, Kingston, and Windsor.

Entertained at Showers

Previous to her marriage, Mrs. Ralph Adams, (nee Carole Smith), was entertained at several showers. Linen Shower was held at the home of Mrs. David Adams, with co-hostess Gavin Adams in Madoc. A Miscellaneous Shower was given at the home of Mrs. Mac Davies, with co-hostess, Miss Janet Davies and a bride with a lovely wedding gift.

Organized living

It's customary to look forward to the end of holidays with a mixture of wistfulness and despair. They were too short; the weather was rotten; the kids all had the skitters; and you hate going back to that job that you hate.

But quite a few people go back to the routine of everyday, organized living with something like a sigh of relief.

Basically, men like work. They are not cut out for more than a couple of weeks of the gay, abandoned life of camping, swimming, fishing. These are treats to look forward to, and to look back on. But, like many of the other treats in life, they lose their flavor if taken in large, continuous doses. Even a kid gets sick of ice cream if he gets it at every meal for a month.

So the boys tote their sunburned carcasses back to the job, and fall, reasonably happy, back into the comfortable round of daily work, the casual friendships with fellow-employees, and the good, long, lazy mooch around on weekends.

For the ladies, end of holidays is often sheer delight. Especially those with school-age children. No more cuts and scrapes to look after. No more summer 'flu to cope with. No more panic at the beach when Jimmie disappears for a few minutes. No more huddling in a tent while the rain pours down.

What joy to get everybody out of the house in the morning! What bliss to sit down with a quiet cup of coffee and taste the pure pleasure of privacy! What exquisite ecstasy to know that nobody is going to burst in with a, "Hey, Mom, Billy just fell off the porch on his head."

Like many another, I don't mind the end of holidays at all. Two months of muddling and piddling around degenerates almost any man to the level of a beachcomber.

Looking back each year, the sum total of my holidays fails dismally to impress me. Long, glorious days of fun in the sun. My foot! This summer was no different. I went fishing once in the bass-infested waters of Georgian Bay, fished all day, and caught a cold. I broke 100 in golf. Once. I poured several hundred drinks for visitors. Not a glorious record of achievement.

It's the things I didn't do that makes the impressive list. I didn't go on that canoe trip up north. I didn't jog for an hour every day to get in shape. I didn't go to the Stratford Festival. I didn't take off on that swing around to see all my old friends in the weekly newspapers. I didn't make that trip to Quebec City to see son Hugh. I didn't read War and Peace. The list is endless.

That's why the opening of school in September finds me almost eager to abandon this life of sloth and meet the challenge of all those young faces in the classroom. And challenge is the word for some of them. "I defy you to teach me anything."

But there are other things that make the opening of a school a pleasant occasion. Fellow-teachers are all brown and keen and friendly. By November they'll be gray and harassed and surly, but that's all right.

There are the new teachers, wide-eyed with alarm and confusion, who ask desperately, "But where do I send these forms? What do I do with the locker money? How do you teach a poem? Who do I see to resign?"

There are the first staff meetings, those symposiums which sparkle with the wit and eloquence of a grocery list.

But first and foremost, there are the thirteen hundred students, brown of face and limb, mini-skirted to the hilt, friendly, happy and excited as they greet old class-mates, make new friends and head for another milestone on their trek through life.

Don't ask me in February, but in September, I like it.

WEDDING

WANNAMAKER — ELLIS

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, was the scene of the beautiful summer marriage of Barbara Anne, daughter of Mrs. Alice Ellis, Campbellford, and Mr. Roy Ellis of Hastings, to Mr. Garnet Arthur Wannamaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Wannamaker, R.R. 1, Madoc. The Reverend A. E. Toomlis officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Wedding music was rendered by organist, Mrs. Don Rutherford, who accompanied the soloist, Master John Cook of Hastings.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white chantilly lace lined with bridal satin. Her scalloped four-tier shoulder length veil of French silk illusion fell from a silver and crystal gown and she carried and colonial bouquet of red roses and white 'mums.

Mrs. Heather Russell of Campbellford, sister of the bride, was maid of honour and Misses Nancy and Sandra Ellis, also sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids, with Miss Dana Wallace as flower girl. All wore floor-length yellow lace gowns with matching headpieces and carried bouquets of daisies with fern and yellow ribbon woven throughout.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Lloyd Wannamaker, of Brantford and the ushers were Mr. John Ellis, brother of the bride from Toronto, and Mr. Gale McMasters, Kenneth Wannamaker, Madoc, brother of the groom, was ring bearer.

The reception was held in the church parlours where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a dress of green lace with matching green accessories. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a dress of pale blue lace with white accessories and each wore corsages of white carnations.

For travelling to points west, the bride chose a pink lace dress with white accessories with a corsage of red roses and white 'mums. Upon their return, they will reside at Hastings.

Out-of-town guests were the bridegroom's grandparents from Brantford and other guests from Toronto, Madoc and Eldorado.

MINI FARMS. Almost every Canadian town or city dweller dreams at one time or another of escaping to a country retreat. For most, it remains just a dream, and spiralling land prices near larger communities will likely keep it that way. But in Japan, commercial "leisure farms" now cater to amateur farmers who pay a few dollars a year for the privilege of tending tiny plots of land. This weekend farmer tends his plot outside Tokyo.

WEDDING

ANDREWS - LAKE

Bannockburn Pentecostal Tabernacle was the setting on Saturday afternoon, July 27, 1968, at 2:30 p.m.

for the marriage of Miss Catherine Ada, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Lake of Bannockburn, to Mr. Melvin Carl Bruce Andrews of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews, Newfoundland. Rev. R. Campbell was the officiating clergyman in a surrounding of ferns and baskets of pink, white and mauve clorbia with stephenie. The family pews were designated with pink and white satin bows.

Mrs. J. Donly was organist and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. R. Campbell, in singing the Lord's Prayer and God Bless this Man.

The bride was radiant and lovely in a gown featuring an Empire bodice, bell sleeves of lace, and an A-line skirt of nylon chiffon open over peau de sole with a nylon chiffon train.

She carried a white bible and stephanotis.

A friend of the bride, Mrs. Evelyn Keus, as matron of honour, wore a lemon yellow nylon chiffon gown, white accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow and white 'mums. Miss Elaine Hamilton, cousin of the bride, was a bridesmaid and dressed in a carouse blue chiffon, white accessories and blue and white 'mums.

Miss Brenda Post, also a cousin, was the third bridesmaid and was gowned in a shocking pink chiffon dress with white accessories and pink and white 'mums.

Mr. Wallace Andrews of Nfld., brother of the groom, was bestman. The ushers were Mr. Murray Sargison and Mr. Douglas Lake, brother of the bride.

For the reception held in the Eldorado United Church Parlours, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a dress of pale blue lace over taffeta, white accessories and a corsage of baby pink roses, stephanotis and perennial sweet peas. Assisting was the groom's mother in a teal blue dress of lace over taffeta and white accessories. A corsage of pink roses, stephenie and perennial sweet peas completed her ensemble.

Large wedding bells hung above the bride's table, which was centered by a three tier cake.

For her wedding trip to North Bay and points north, the bride chose a printed rose linen dress with matching cape, white accessories and a corsage of carnations. The couple are residing at 15 North Front Street, Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were from Newfoundland, Hamilton, Brantford, Newmarket, Belleville, Trenton, Toronto, Stirling, Norwood, Marmora and Thomasburg.

DEAR DORIS

advice from
Doris Clark

Over affection

DEAR DORIS — My husband is an only child, just 19. My personal opinion is that my mother-in-law is terribly jealous of me. She walks the floor saying how he could get killed, or catch pneumonia. She goes on like this until I am at the end of my nerves. One time she said to Tom, "I love you, Tommy, even if you are married."

She is continually kissing my husband and loving up to him. He hates it and it makes me sick. Doris, do you think she is jealous?

We are living in Blanktown now, in a suite of our own. I moved out of my in-laws' place in three weeks. That was enough for me. I just told them Tom was coming home and we should have a place of our own.

I wish we could be 1,000 miles away from them. Maybe you will think it is me who is jealous. Maybe I am, but I think they should turn loose a little and let Tom alone. But I think he must enjoy their worrying; he can't see my side of it.

Going Nuts

DEAR GOING — A bad case of smother love. Treatment? Large doses of affection and confidence to Tom from you. Tom will grow up in spite of a hovering Mom and Dad, as he shoulders family responsibilities.

Main-law will get used to doing without him. Let her see, gently, that you are managing nicely alone. You are his Number One Girl now; you can afford to be gracious.

DEAR DORIS — My oldest girl is nine. She is careless, untidy. Where things fall, there they sit. When asked to tidy up, it takes her a long time to get there. She fools around till it's time to go to school, does a lot of talking, especially after being asked to do something; when asked why nothing has been done, she says she forgot.

She never offers to help and whenever there's little jobs in sight she's gone. My other two girls who are eight and seven keep their things in order and get things done when asked. And it will amaze you how much they can help if they want to.

What amazes me is my oldest daughter will come and say, "Mommy, you sure keep things nice, your clothes are sure nice, your drawers are sure tidy!" Yet she can't seem to let it sink into her head that her things could be just as nice if each time she put things where they belong.

We don't favor any of the children. I hate to keep harping at her all the time. Will she ever change?

Ready To Give Up

DEAR READY — Oh, don't give up. You are her best hope. This stalling may have started as an attention-getter, way back when the two little sisters were taking you away from Number One. Then it kept on as a bad habit.

If it is your attention she is after, try following up on her spoken admiration by letting her be with you while you tidy your drawers. Let her make some of the decisions when it comes to straightening things, or throwing away what is no longer useful.

Since she likes pretty things, promise her a pretty dress when she learns to hang up her clothes. A system of reward and companionship can be miracle-working.

DEAR DORIS — Our daughter is having a ring bearer (four years old) at her wedding. Could you please tell us how the ring is attached to the cushion? Where is he in the procession?

Wants Things Right

DEAR WANTS — If he bears the actual ring, fasten it to the cushion with a few silk threads.

He marches up the aisle just ahead of the bride and her father. Sometimes the real ring is safely in the custody of the best man, with the ring bearer just here for effect. If so, he may leave the procession as it reaches the mother's pew.

He does not join the recessional.

REPORT

During the week of August 18th to August 24th, 1968, officers of the Madoc Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated 14 motor vehicle accidents, with one personal injury accident, resulting in injury to Harold Ralph Robinson, 183 Park Road South, Oshawa, Ontario. Robinson was a passenger in a 1966 Chevrolet owned and driven by Osmond Lyman, 375 Poplar St., Oshawa, Ontario. The accident occurred approximately three miles south of the Village of Madoc on Highway No. 62, Sunday, August 25, 1968, at 6:20 p.m. Prov. Const. D. C. Bush is the investigating officer.

There was 68 occurrences reported during the past week, two break and enter, seven thefts, five requests for assistance, four disturbances, two malicious damage, with 48 miscellaneous occurrences.

Thirty eight traffic warnings were handed out, 32 vehicle safety checks, 13 charges laid for offences under authority of the Highway Traffic Act of Ontario.

Twenty one hours were spent in Magistrate's Court, Madoc, with Magistrate Kurata registering 40 convictions, one of which was a $100.00 fine for a charge of Dangerous Driving, Sec. 221 (4) Criminal Code of Canada.

Approximately 4,600 miles of area roads were patrolled during 496 working hours.

MOTORISTS — Want to know a sure way to get more out of driving? RELAX. The best route through trouble spots or congestion is RELAXATION.

Prov. Const. D. N. Walton, Traffic Officer.

Fresh out of college and seeking his first job, the young man wrote the following question on his application blank: "Are the salary raises here automatic or do you have to work to earn them?"

THE SPORTS BEAT

By Glen May

My fearless forecast

The greatest aerial attack since the Blitz of Britain will take place at Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition field on Grey Cup day, when the Ottawa Rough Riders and Calgary Stampeders do battle for the battered mug which is emblematic of supremacy in Canadian football.

Only an unforeseen catastrophe can prevent a meeting between these two giants of the CFL.

Earlier we wrote that four clubs: Ottawa, Calgary, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Saskatchewan Roughriders were the premier teams in Canada. The reasons for this were listed.

Forget that column!

Calgary and Ottawa have shown such awesome power with "the bomb" that either of them could threaten world peace. These two teams are lethal weapons, and even in this nuclear age, nobody can push enough buttons to stop their course of total destruction.

Wally Gahler, the much-maligned quarterback with the much-maligned Toronto Argonauts, stated that no team would win a division with an impressive won-and-lost record. He predicted a division champion would be declared with a record of about eight wins in the east and around nine in the west.

In the east they play 14 games and out west it's 16 times for regular season play.

If either Calgary or Ottawa loses more than two games their winning opponents should be given saliva tests.

Russ Jackson (Ottawa) and Peter Liske (Calgary), if they continue their aerial circus, may establish passing records which will never be threatened in CFL history. They both are so pass conscious that a first down on an opponent's two-yard line doesn't constitute a running play over tackle.

Instead, either of them is more likely to drop back and throw a 30-yard pitch into the end zone.

Ottawa has one slight advantage over the Stampeders in that Jackson can marshal some semblance of a ground attack with his company of fine runners such as Bo Scott, Ronnie Stewart and Lovell Coleman.

Peter Liske's foot soldiers consist of one man — Ted Woods — and an eight-yard gain for him is exceptional. If Liske falters through the air the Cowboys from the plains are dead.

Both Calgary and Ottawa have rock-ribbed defences which are capable of containing their foe in the air or on the land. Even on an off day when their defences allow 25 or 30 points, it probably won't be enough.

The awesome power of the two offences is geared toward 40 and 50 point efforts. And this is the rule rather than the exception.

Both of these teams could hold their own in the American Football League right today. Perhaps they wouldn't win a championship, but you can bet they'd make it most uncomfortable for the top two teams. Most of their first stringers could catch a berth with teams like San Diego, Oakland, Houston, New York or Buffalo.

At this time we won't prognosticate on who will win the Grey Cup.

However, we think it would only be fair to predict a score. Weighing the facts carefully and judging both teams on the first one-third of the season, we would have to assume the following score to be reasonably accurate: 42-31.

If anyone doubts the validity of this fearless forecast they know the address.

P.S. Also, if you care to make any wager, please don't hesitate to do so.
